Teen-Agers Speak Out

This is the first in an intriguing series of articles on today's youth — what they think, what they do, what they believe. The answers were provided by the only genuine authority on the subject, the teen-agers themselves.

BY BRUCE LOWTHER

Seldom has a generation been the subject of as much debate or received as much damnation as have the teen-agers of today.

To find out where they stand, The Daily Colonist has asked some two dozen teen-agers in Greater Victoria what they really think about—if they think at all.

Twirling a dial on a paint-mixing machine at Bapco, where she is working for the summer, Betty-Lou Hemingson is a typical Victoria teen-ager who knows what she wants out of life. The 19-year-old is entering her third year at the University of British Columbia in preparation for a career as a clinical psychologist.—(Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman.)

They certainly do—in few, blunt and sensible words. Take those of Tom English, 18-year-old scholastic and academic leader at Victoria high school until his recent graduation, on the subject of religion:

"I do not think it is necessary for me to go to church steadily to prove that I am a Christian. Within my mind, I have belief which is much greater than many of those who go to church every Sunday but rob their fellow men every weekday."

LEADERS QUIZZED

The replies were made through an 18-point questionnaire sent by The Colonist to young men and women who lead student activities, to others prominent in athletics and to still others who set the social pace.

They were asked for their own opinions, but phrased in the light of what they feel their "gang" thinks. They were advised that answers could be confidential; a few marked a sentence or two that way and only one sought anonymity.

FOR OWN GOOD

On parents and teachers:

Peggy Standen, 17, 1956-57 student council president at Victoria high school: "Most are not too strict. They have the welfare of the children in mind and discipline only for their good."

On ambitions:

Hamish Redford, 18, student council president at Oak Bay high school last year: "Success in my career, financial security, health, happy marriage and a sound religious philosophy."

On troublemakers in their own ranks:

Marion Mezger, 16, former Victoria high school student: "Five per cent are troublemakers. This results from an inadequate upbringing and lack of recreational facilities. Adults should try to find the cause . . . and attempt to interest their children in more gratifying and wholesome activities."

POTENT CONSCIENCE

On smoking and drinking:

Robin Farquhar, 17, member of 1955-56 Victoria high school student council: "I don't drink. My parents are not in favor of my smoking but recently they have left this matter to my own judgment and I pack a pretty potent conscience."

On rock 'n' roll:

Feast Opens Gorge Beach

Enjoying the time of their lives last night are these two Rockwell avenue youngsters, who took part in swimming events and a hot-dog feast at the official opening of the new beach on the Gorge at the foot of Rockwell. George Pistell, 8, and his sister Marie, 7, are dwarfed by navy frogman Lieut. G. H. Lawther, officer commanding HMCS Naden diving school. Four of the navy men demonstrated their skill to more than 100 guests and also took part in final clean-up of the pool. See story on Page 15.—(Colonist photo by Ted Harris.)

Italian Press Claims

Doria Warned Stockholm About Danger of Collision

ROME (UP)—Italian newspapers bannered reports yesterday that the Andrea Doria's captain vainly warned the Swedish liner Stockholm before they collided Wednesday night.

At the same time, Italy prepared to investigate the disaster. Shipping sources said the Italian investigation was expected to be held in the Doria's home port of Genoa as soon as Capt. Piero Calamai and crew members return to Italy.

Italian afternoon newspapers quoted "New York Maritime Circles" for their report that Calamai warned the Stockholm of collision danger 20 minutes before the two ships hit.

NEW YORK SILENT

(There have been no reports of such a warning in New York where masters of both ships have been questioned by reporters since the disaster.)

The independent Giornale d'Italia gave the following version:

"The young officers in charge of radar interception informed Capt. Calamai, who was on the deck, around 2300 (11 p.m.) that on the green radar screen there had clearly appeared the profile of a ship following the same route as the Doria in the opposite direction.

Calamai immediately radiotelegraphed the ship that the two ships were racing towards each other and that he would take the appropriate measures to avoid collision upon receiving confirmation.

'REPEATED WARNING'

"Capt. Calamai again repeated the warning, and the Stockholm again acknowledged the message. But despite all this, the Swedish ship kept following the original route," the newspaper continued.

"Capt. Calamai then decided to try at least to get out of the Stockholm's route. But the Swedish ship hit him, apparently with full force, probably in an attempt to pass before the Doria's prow."

Versions given by other newspapers were almost identical. They said about 20 minutes elapsed between Capt. Calamai's first warning and the collision.

Disaster Figures Mount

NEW YORK (AP)—The Italian Line, operator of the sunken liner Andrea Doria, revised sharply upward Saturday night its figures on the dead and missing from the ship.

It listed "two dead and 18 missing and presumed dead." This would bring the death toll in the sea tragedy to 25.

A company spokesman said there also were about 73 additional "unaccounted for" from the Andrea Doria, but it was felt that "many of these were alive."

Earlier, three Andrea Doria passengers were reported dead by fellow passengers or relatives who were aboard the ship. Two other Andrea Doria passengers died after being rescued.

Two crewmen of the liner Stockholm were known to be dead also and three others are missing and believed dead.

'Private Eyes' Seek Perjury Test Trial

Critical statements in a Supreme Court justice's recent ruling in a divorce action here are being challenged by a private detective agency in a letter to Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Mr. Justice Harry J. Sullivan said in judgment that two of the company's investigators gave perjured evidence at hearings on the case.

The National Investigation Agency, employer of the investigators involved, has sent a letter to the attorney-general, it was learned yesterday, asking that the men be charged with perjury so that their innocence or guilt may finally be determined.

The letter was signed by C. I. R. Watling.

Mr. Justice Sullivan was critical of the part played in the divorce action by the investigators, Gordon Murray Dunnett and Gerald Fiddick, whom he respectively described as a "private eye" and a "part-time detective."

"I feel sure," the jurist said in judgment, "that without the encouragement of such agencies, as are represented by people like 'private eye' Dunnett, the petitioner (in the divorce action) might have come to his senses eventually and this Canadian family become reunited and happy as they should be."

Mr. Justice Sullivan said he had found "confirmation"—that the investigators "committed perjury before the court."

Ottawa Hints Pension Boost

OTTAWA (CP)—Health Minister Martin indicated Saturday that active consideration is being given to the question of increasing the federal old-age pension.

He spoke in the Commons after opposition members stated the present $40-a-month pension is inadequate to enable Canadians over 70 to maintain even a minimum standard of living.

"This particular matter is receiving very active attention on my part and on the part of the department," he said.

"There are a number of things we have in mind. I don't know whether we will be able to bring them forward or not, but there isn't any problem that concerns me more than this particular one."

However, Mr. Martin said no social security measure should be designed to provide a recipient with complete means of support.

Ambrose Hoowach (SC—Edmonton East) said all members of the House acknowledge that the present pension is inadequate. Yet the government was not prepared to do anything about it.

John Blackmore (SC — Lethbridge) said it is "utterly fantastic" that a country as wealthy as Canada cannot find a way to pay senior citizens more than $40 a month.

Polish Pilots Escape

VIENNA (AP)—Four young Polish air cadets, flying two stolen training planes, landed in Austria Saturday after a dramatic 400-mile night flight to freedom from behind the Iron Curtain.

The two planes came down 60 miles apart in lower Austria. The four anti-Communist airmen immediately asked for political asylum to escape "unbearable living conditions" in Poland.

The four Poles said they took off Saturday night from an airfield in Deblin, southeast of Warsaw, with intentions of flying to Munich in West Germany.

Near Port Alberni

Two Drownings Claim Boy, Man

Special to the Colonist

PORT ALBERNI—A 15-year-old boy and an elderly man died in separate drowning accidents near Port Alberni last night.

Police said David Kiest, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tim Kiest of Port Alberni, drowned in 15 feet of water while trying to swim to shore from a raft in Cox lake, four miles from here.

The boy's father arrived on the scene and brought him to shore, where he was treated by firemen, but could not be revived.

Later in the evening an elderly man, whose name is withheld, drowned in 30 feet of water after he fell from a wharf in the Alberni canal.

Two men in the vicinity heard the drowning man calling for help and pulled him to shore. They called the fire department, which was unable to revive the man.

Writer Pictured

Mr. Emery draws a word picture of the man in his column—"I know what I like"—which appears on page 19. This is Mr. Emery's second column, which will be a regular Sunday feature of the Colonist.

Some Spotty In Spelling

Victoria teen-agers score something better than a passing mark in spelling.

Among the thousands of words written to The Daily Colonist on their problems and opinions, two dozen leading teen-agers flubbed the short ones but went through the long ones with flying colors.

Mistakes included fanancial, handel, condemn, definatly, accross, tryed, valuble, jallopy, Charelston, Red Skeleton, previleges, priviledges and menover (manoeuvre).

Accuracies included deleterious, agnosticism, fallacy, debatable, rambunctious, neurotic, beneficial, hypocrisy, immaturity, ineffectual, adolescence and indulgence.

"Please excuse my handwriting and poor grammar," wrote one 16-year-old girl. "I didn't take the time to check it to carefully."

Internal Unrest in Egypt May Topple Nasser Throne

By STAN SWINTON

ROME (AP) — Gamal Abdel Nasser's nationalization of the Suez canal may well bring about his fall from power before many months.

That is the opinion of Middle East experts who have been in on-the-spot contact with Egyptian developments for several years.

Anti-Western elements in the Arab world outside Egypt enthusiastically support President Nasser. But Nasser never has been able to win over his own people because of internal problems which receive little attention abroad.

Even before Nasser nationalized the Suez canal and Britain retaliated by freezing Egypt's sterling balance, the Egyptian economic situation was bleak. The highly publicized Nasser revolution has failed to produce economic reforms which would have raised the abysmal living standard of the Egyptian peasant. Financial restrictions and red tape have choked Egyptian commerce.

An important factor little appreciated abroad is the Egyptian belief that the West has decided that Nasser must go. It is true that British influence has declined in the post-war years. Yet Egyptians still have an exaggerated conception of secret British power. Many believe in their hearts that Britain still can drive any Arab leader from power—and they do not want to be on the losing side.

Continued Drought — Causing Alarm

Island Forests Like Powder Keg

Vancouver Island's forests were like a powder keg yesterday.

Expected relief for the parched timberlands did not materialize. D. B. Taylor, head forester for the Vancouver district, said "there doesn't seem any hope of moisture coming in the near future."

The restricted industrial and travel closure in the district will be strictly enforced, as humidities are predicted to remain low and temperatures high.

Lakes and beaches accessible by highway are still open to the public and provincial parks are open. Only fishing allowed is from boats.

Mr. Taylor said a full closure would not be considered "until things get a lot tougher than they are now—until we get a lot more fires, and we don't expect that."

Forest fire situation was "quiet" yesterday, with no new ones reported, he said. Those burning were "in good shape," including the largest, a 100-acre blaze on Mudge island near Nanaimo, which was being mopped up.

Thirteen new fires had been reported burning Friday, making 15 for the district.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

SOME weeks ago a group of young missionaries were savagely murdered by the stone-age Auca Indians of South America, with whom they were trying to set up friendly relations.

They were martyrs and their names will long be held in reverence. With all respect to their memory, however, would it not be wiser to leave the Aucas alone in future?

They are one of the few remaining wild primitive peoples on earth. True, the effort to take the gospel to them is in line with the teachings of Christianity.

If the gospel were all we gave them, they would probably benefit. Unfortunately, we force them to accept civilization as well. And it seems (although nobody can prove this) that they would be happier if they were allowed to remain in a primitive state, and their society preserved as a living museum of man as he used to be.

This column is not in the "advice to the lovelorn" business. When a veteran husband came in and offered a tip to wives about keeping their marriages afloat, he got a sour look at first.

If there really is a "battle of the sexes," his generous offer might be looked upon by some men as an act of treachery. But the man said that he was trying to promote peace and goodwill. So here is his advice, for what it is worth . . .

"When a smart wife suspects that her husband is spending too much time with another woman, she doesn't blow her top and make a scene," the man said.

"She invites the other woman to her house, and gives her the sweet treatment.

"Believe me, it works," said the man, "because my wife has used it on me."

I confronted him with a stare that was supposed to indicate cold disapproval.

"It has ruined two or three promising friendships," he said. "All quite innocent. Next time I saw the girl, she would start telling me what a fine person my wife was. And I knew right then that the whole thing was over, because the girl didn't want to sabotage her pal."

"I'll pass on what you say," I promised. "But I wouldn't be surprised if you are shouting advice that women have whispered to each other since time began."

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

I see that Marilyn Monroe has crowded all other news off the front pages of British papers. Except for The Times, that is, and The Times does not have too large a circulation anyway. (Incidentally, the Manchester Guardian, which similarly eschews the sensational, at last reports had a dangerously low circulation.

Our own newspapers have not been exactly niggardly in giving Miss Monroe front page prominence. One shudders to think of the magnificent forests that have been cut down to provide newsprint to cover a not otherwise too well-covered young woman. A story relates that Marilyn wishes to be recognized for her intellect. Foolish, when the public obviously prefers a big bust to a big brain.

A report in the Christian Century tells of the death of Walter van Kirk. If the papers carried the news, it was so well-hidden that it missed my eyes.—Walter van Kirk was one of the truly great men of our day. He was one of the chief architects of American foreign policy.

Undoubtedly he was profoundly influential in such vast foreign aid projects as the one that sent in a single year 2,500 skilled technicians from the United States into 3,500 countries to achieve fabulous results in overcoming disease, building hydro-electric plants, establishing new industries, and constructing irrigation systems.

Few men in any age have contributed as much to international fellowship and goodwill. He had a warm, strong personality. John Foster Dulles called him a "Christian statesman of outstanding brilliance."

On the Labor Front

Dan Radford On Sidelines In Union Vote

By BILL MAVOR

Veteran unionist Dan Radford will be on the sidelines during election of officers at the merger convention Oct. 13 of the Trades Union Congress and B.C. Federation of Labor.

President for seven years of the former CCL federation, Mr. Radford said yesterday he will not stand for election to any office. He cited an unwritten rule that a paid official of the Canadian Labor Congress shoudn't hold office except in emergency.

The former Nanaimo unionist took over presidency of the federation when there was a housecleaning of left wing elements from West Coast unions. He was then, and is, an official of the national Labor Congress.

There is no prior agreement between the TLC congress and the federation on distribution of offices. The elections will be from the convention floor.

Claude Jodoin, Canadian Labor Congress president, is slated to address the merger convention, which will be held at Vancouver.

In Victoria as one of a "flood" of organizers to get unorganized Victorians into unions, Mr. Radford said it is his opinion that if there is any recession in economy people will be spared a repitition of the 1930's.

Payments 'Meagre'

He places his confidence on unemployment insurance. Payments to individuals may be "meagre," he said, but when added on a national scale millions of dollars are involved. The approximately $900,000,000 in the unemployment insurance fund could prevent wheels of economy creaking too badly.

Mr. Radford also anticipates the day when unemployment insurance benefits and labor's much-wanted guaranteed wage will be interlocked for a worker's benefit.

Many secondary industries cannot fully meet guaranteed wage demands, he said. The "eventual guarantee" would be higher than present unemployment insurance benefits but still short of the going rates of pay.

E. T. Staley, Cliff Priestley and Don Bushell are delegates from Vancouver Island Building and Construction Trades Council to an inter-provincial meeting at Calgary Aug. 6.

Along with representatives of trades councils in Vancouver at Kitimat they will meet personnel from Calgary, Edmonton and Lethbridge councils for discussions on possibility of establishing a building trades department within the Canadian Labor Congress.

Decisions Compared

The meeting's decision will be compared with those from other inter-provincial meetings of councils across Canada.

One feeling here is that if a department is formed, it should operate the first year under the AFL-CIO building trades department, at Washington, D.C., to obtain guidance on jurisdictional quarrels among craft and industrial unions, and the settlements achieved.

A strike committee has been established by Victoria Automotive Workers' Union in a contract dispute that goes to a conciliation board, involving 10 automotive dealers.

About 250 workers are affected, asking $2.10 an hour from the present $1.78½ for journeymen mechanics, and increases for lower classifications.

The union asks for a four-hour reduction on the 44-hour work week from Oct. 1, with the same take-home pay, on a two-year contract. Equal pay would amount to about $1.96½ hourly.

Also sought are nine paid statutory holidays and union shop. All demands are based on a one-year contract.

Earnings of $13,000

A paragraph in a newspaper states that a girl wrestler at the age of 21 is earning $13,000 a year. A friend tells me, however, that the top male wrestlers get much more. One wrestler, he maintains, makes four times as much as the prime minister of Canada! Did you see where a university wanted a professor in the department of science capable of doing some research work? It's a good job, worth $4,000 a year.

But this "wrestling" (I know, I know—I apologize—but they call it "wrestling") has become very popular in our town. Last year at our stampede we had a fine ice show which combined skill, color, magnificent scenery of great beauty and artistry, but this year we decided not to over-rate the public mind. We had a gigantic "wrestling" (sorry) show.

By the way did you ever hear of Yellapragada Subbarow? He was undoubtedly one of the greatest medical research scientists of our times. He entered the study of medicine because of the death of his brother from the fatal disease of "sprue." He graduated from the University of Madras at the top of his class, and continued his studies in the Universities of London and Harvard. Harvard persuaded this genius to stay for 15 years on its teaching staff. Then he became director of the vast multi-million dollar research program at Lederle Laboratories in Pearl River, New York.

Cure for Sprue

He not only discovered a cure for sprue, but he also discovered teropterin, used in treating cancer, and was influential in other discoveries such as the famous aureomycin. He gave away all he earned, for the man was utterly unselfish. "I was born with nothing. I shall die with nothing. Everything I have I give to the work of God." Those who knew him loved and admired him with unlimited devotion.

Am I boring you? Let us talk about something else. A competent observer estimated that a certain company spent $60,000 decorating its temporary executive offices. Anybody complaining about high taxes—or high wages? Sure, I believe in beauty, but it would be nice to have it in a place like our civic arts centre where people could see it. Incidentally, wouldn't that $60,000 make a beautiful beginning on a home for the chronically ill among the aged?

A man tells me he "is too busy to come to church." One thing that keeps him busiest is attending numerous receptions and cocktail parties. Of course he must, I suppose, put first things first.

But will someone please enlighten me? How do you decide what are the most important things? How do you know what to put first? A prominent journalist describes this as a "Christian country." Really? Then explain to me. . . . Sorry, I must leave you. Another pedestrian has been hit by a car at 17th avenue and 10th street west.

Long-Term Plan

Red China Builds Big Film Industry

BERLIN (NANA)—The Red Chinese government has drawn up a long-term plan to build up its film industry, says Red Chinese sources in East Berlin.

Three East European Communist nations—East Germany, Czechoslovakia and Poland—are assisting the Peiping government's efforts.

East Germany is building a factory to manufacture raw film as well as an optical industry to make cameras and other accessories required by the movie industry.

Poland is helping the Peiping government build a large studio to dub Russian and East European movies in Chinese and other regional languages. Poland also is helping train artists, directors and cameramen.

Two movie specialists have been sent to Peiping to help build up an institute of cinematography.

Playgrounds Sports Day Set

Children from Saanich's 16 playgrounds will compete for some 163 prizes at their annual sports day in Reynolds park, Aug. 11.

Park winning the most points will be awarded the Butler Brothers Trophy.

Some 53 events have been scheduled, including foot races for children four to 16, novelty races, and a special race for the 14 park supervisors.

The playgrounds softball league playoffs will start the proceedings at noon.

Plans for the day were made last night at a meeting of Saanich recreation council. General chairman of the meet is Wally Gray; organizer, Gerry Dunn; events committee, Les Anderson and Arthur Chamberlain; picnic supplies, D. B. Harrison and Mrs. W. J. Ruby and finance, E. C. Head and William Beddington.

T-33 Crashes, Crew Safe

EDMONTON (CP)—A T-33 jet trainer of the RCAF crashed Friday 15 miles north of Bonnyville, Alta., 150 miles northeast of here, while on a flight from the RCAF Cold Lake Station to Winnipeg.

The two officers aboard parachuted to safety.

Fire Destroys $400,000 Mill

SALMON ARM, B.C. (CP)—A $400,000 sawmill six miles east of here was destroyed by fire in less than 30 minutes Friday.

The sawmill, owned by Federated Co-Operative Ltd., of Saskatoon, employed 160 men. No injuries were reported.

Cut Out, Burn Infested Canes

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Currant Cane Borer—(G.R.C., Royal Oak.) I'm afraid there isn't any spray or chemical which will reach the tunnelling grub in the canes of your black currant bushes. The only control is to cut out and burn all infested canes now, and to go over your bushes again in the winter, after the leaves have dropped, looking for shoots which are drooping or bent over, indicating borers at work within. Cut these shoots down to below the point of entry and burn them.

Christmas Cactus — (M.B., East Sooke.) The little fuzzy white spots on your Christmas cactus are mealy bugs. If there are not too many of them, try picking them off with the dampened end of an artist's brush. If more drastic action is needed, spray the plant with Volck oil spray, one teaspoonful in a cup of water.

Your plant should be in a shady spot outdoors for the summer, with the pot plunged up to the rim in the ground. Start tapering off on the water towards the end of September, and bring the plant indoors about Sept. 15, keeping it without food, water or light for six weeks. Start it back into active growth around Nov. 1 giving very little water at first.

Lawn Weed — (E.M.S., Victoria.) The creeping weed with the little yellow flowers which is chokingout your lawn grass is yellow suckling clover. It is resistant to ordinary 2,4-D, but a mixture of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T will clean it out. This solution can be purchased ready mixed under the name of Brushkil or Brush-Bane. Used in the proper solution, as recommended on the package, it will take out the suckling clover without damage to the grass.

Bean Troubles—(L.F.S., Westholme.) The mosaic disease of green and yellow beans is characterized by a mottling of leaves, with lighter areas merging with darker green, best seen when the leaf is held to the light. There is usually some dwarfing of the plants also. This is a virus disease, transmitted by infected seed, and like most virus infections, there is no known control for it except the uprooting and burning of affected vines.

If the leaves are turning greyish brown instead of mottling, you may be suffering from an attack of the microscopic red spider on the underside of the leaves. There is usually a very slight trace of web on the back of the leaves when these mites are present.

This pest is immune to DDT, Methoxychlor, BHC and similar insecticides, and while it can be destroyed by spraying with Malathion, it would be unwise to use a poison spray on edible crops at this season of the year.

Carrot Rust Fly — (L.F.S., Westholme.) Benzene hexachloride (BHC) gives excellent control over the carrot rust fly, but must be used with extreme care or it will taint the carrots, giving them a musty flavor. It is very persistent in the soil, and an overdose can often affect the flavor of the carrots after two years.

I prefer to use either five per cent Chlordane dust or 2½ per cent Aldrin, dusted lightly over the plants as the seedlings emerge and again 10 days later. At these rates, I don't think these chemicals would have any toxic effects on the vegetables or the soil.

An old-time gardener once told me that if you grew carrots and onions in close adjoining rows, the onion fly and the carrot fly would be confused by the blending of the scents of the two foliages, and both crops would escape attack. I have been intending to try this out, but every spring I lose my nerve and get out the dust gun.

Flames Destroy Qualicum Bakery

QUALICUM BEACH — Fire destroyed the Qualicum Bakery here Friday causing an estimated $15,000 loss. The blaze is believed to have spread from a big stove at the back of the bakery operated by H. Adams.

Northern Halibut Still Coming In

Halibut caught in the Gulf of Alaska are still being landed at Prince Rupert, where several Canadian boats sold their fish last week. Catches ranged from 20,000 to 50,000 pounds a boat.

Fishing will continue in that area till the end of August. The season is closed in all waters adjacent to the B.C. coast and the majority of the Canadian halibut boats are now engaged in salmon fishing.

Britain Slams Door

LONDON (UP)—Britain blocked $308,000,000 in Egyptian government pound sterling balances yesterday in retaliation for Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser's seizure of the Suez canal.

British and French foreign ministers will meet tomorrow in London to consider further emergency measures. Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert L. Murphy is being dispatched from Washington to represent the United States at the conference.

Private Egyptian bank balances in England also were affected by the order which tied up a sum equal to the estimated net income from nearly seven years of the canal's operation.

BODY BLOW

If long sustained, it could be a body blow to Nasser's announced determination to use the canal's income to finance his cherished $1,300,000,000 high dam at Aswan.

Britain also joined France in blocking Egyptian access to funds belonging to the British-French owned Suez Canal Company.

Nasser received a hero's welcome from nearly 500,000 cheering Egyptians in Cairo upon his return from Alexandria, where he had announced that the Suez canal was being nationalized.

'INJURY BY INJURY'

Nasser said that Egypt will "meet aggression by aggression and injury by injury."

He said "We were expecting this uproar and we are fully prepared to meet any counteraction from their side."

Ottawa Plans for H-Bomb

OTTAWA (BUP)—The government is ready to develop plans to evacuate 13 key areas across Canada in the event of a nuclear attack, Health Minister Paul Martin announced yesterday.

The areas are Montreal, Toronto, "Ottawa-Hull, Windsor, Niagara Falls, Halifax, Vancouver, Hamilton, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Quebec City, Saint John, N.B., and Victoria.

Mr. Martin made the announcement to the Commons during a statement on civil defence.

He delivered only half of the prepared statement he had issued to the press earlier.

CAN'T SAVE ALL

"There can be no activity that would result, if war broke out, in our being able to save everyone," he told the hushed chamber. "All we could do is minimize the blow and minimize the horror of what would result."

Mr. Martin said the government, after consultation with NATO experts, had reached this decision:

"That our defence policy should now be based on the development and testing of plans for the orderly evacuation on short notice of the main urban areas in Canada should the possibility of attack on such areas by nuclear weapons appear to be imminent."

Mr. Martin said Canada's military authorities had told the government that "it must be anticipated that in any major war the North American continent will be attacked with high-yield nuclear weapons from the outset with little, if any, warning."

Teen-Agers Speak Out

Pat Scurrah, 17, another Vic high senior: "There should not be any cut-and-dried deadline. The time to finish a date should rest on the parties concerned."

LACK SECURITY

On relations between the sexes:

Anne Frankham, 16, entering her final year at Victoria high school: "A small percentage (is promiscuous). Perhaps they lack a feeling of security. If a person's home enviroment is such that he feels useless and unwanted then that individual is going to turn elsewhere, and to the easiest way."

In every case, there was a small but vocal minority, as there is in any adult debate—and these teen-agers were as tough on themselves as on adults.

They spoke with humor on foods, clothing fads and latest sayings, with insight on television and security of adult life.

In the next few days, each of these problems will receive more detailed study from the teen-agers themselves. On Tuesday, their views on religion.

HE Who Is HIS Own Doctor Has a Fool For a Patient

This bit of ancient advice, harsh though it seems at first reading, sums up the inherent dangers of self-diagnosis and self-medication. He who plays doctor to himself is often playing the fool. The wise man seeks the advice of a physician in all matters pertaining to his health. If you feel below par—or are worried by persistent or repeating symptoms—see your doctor without delay. His considered diagnosis and prescribed treatment are the only sure way to peace of mind and health of body.

Invite the Guards to B.C.

PICTURES of the Governor-General's Foot Guards and the Canadian Grenadier Guards at a recent Trooping the Color ceremony before Mr. Massey in Ottawa provoke the thought that not much has been heard lately of the Canadian Guards Regiment. Without prejudice to the two militia units which performed this ceremonial drill in excellent style, the occasion was one that would seem to have been tailor-made for the regular army's latest formation. It was fashioned precisely for public display of spit-and-polish precision after the manner of the British Brigade of Guards, although if it can exceed the superb parade-ground elan of the Queen's Own Rifles when Lord Montgomery was here last month it will have to perform some.

The four-battalion Regiment of Canadian Guards was created two years ago and by a stroke of the pen was given precedence over all the battle-tested units of the Canadian Army, much to the latter's chagrin. Some of these were even invaded in order to raise the new guards battalions. Mention of the regiment has not been too conspicuous since, although one supposes it is and has been in strict training in keeping with the proud preference conferred on it. One does not doubt either that on parade the Canadian Guards are really something to see, perhaps as picturesque and precise as their famous namesakes of the Horse Guards Parade.

Presumably Canada as a whole will in time get a chance to watch its elite guards formation in review. A tour of the country would in fact create pride in its being and thus justify its creation. It is a comparatively far date yet but if either or all of its four battalions have not visited the West Coast by 1958 a fitting gesture would be to invite them to take ceremonial part in British Columbia's centennial celebrations that year. And the Regiment of Canadian Guards on parade would, we feel sure, be a first-class attraction.

Sidney's Meagre Port

WHEN Dominion Public Works Minister Winters first inspected the harbor works at Sidney presumably he found them satisfactory, since no provision has been made in the federal estimates for any improvements. That was in the early winter of last year, when the port was dormant. It is a pity the minister can't see Sidney now. The volume of traffic passing through the port already far exceeds anything of previous tourist seasons and the peak has yet to come. Moreover, the season is beginning earlier and continuing longer.

While the ferries appear to be able to operate without serious difficulty, the facilities for small boats are hopelessly inadequate. The volume of traffic using them is virtually doubling each season, yet the miniature yacht basin has not been extended or improved for years. In June, when the weather was poor, the number of American boats entering Sidney as their first port of call on cruises in Canadian waters was almost exactly twice the total for June of last year. This month Sidney is the busiest customs clearance point for private boats on the Island—with the worst facilities.

Mooring space for customs and immigration inspection is not just a matter of convenience but of necessity, as it would be impossible for the officials to examine visiting yachts at anchor outside the basin. As matters are, boats have to lie at the float three or four abreast at considerable risk of damage when there is a swell running; many others have to stand off the harbor for long periods waiting for a chance to get in.

These delays and the annoyance of having to use a basin too small for manoeuvring in comfort give visitors a poor impression and reflect little credit on Canadian efficiency. Mr. Winters' department owes it to the guests Canada urges to come here, and to his government's own inspection services, to make long-over-due improvements.

Public Doing Its Part

IN previous summers it has been customary to heap rebuke on campers, picnickers and motorists for carelessness in wooded areas where fire danger lurks. It is particularly pleasing therefore to hear the B.C. Forest Service praising the public this year and crediting travellers with having caused not one single fire so far. A large proportion of the extensive fire damage in other years has been directly traced to carelessness with camp fires, matches and cigaret butts.

A word of commendation goes a long way, and with this praise in their ears members of the public should be encouraged to go on applying the simple, common-sense rules for fire prevention which are keeping losses to a minimum at a time of acute danger. The forest service also deserves applause not only for its vigilance and efficiency in suppressing the fires which have occurred but also for the success of its campaign to educate people generally about summertime responsibilities in and near the woods.

The partial closure was made inevitable by the weather. It is disappointing to many vacationers now excluded from all wooded areas except those in recognized parks, camp sites and resorts where there is proper supervision; but the restriction plus continued caution on the part of all concerned may save the closure from being made total, which would be disastrous to industry and the livelihood of thousands of families.

Island Editors Say

Opportunity and Challenge

The opportunity and challenge which confronts the Canadian steel industry is that it expand to such an extent as to make this country self-dependent for steel. With much of the raw material for the U.S. steel plants emanating from Canada, surely it would be the better part of wisdom to have these materials processed in Canada through an enlarged steel industry, which would give more employment to Canadians.

Our steel industry should not be satisfied until it has reached the status of providing all of this country's requirements of steel—and then having something left over for export.

Tourist Traffic Heavy

Residents of Sidney are watching goggle-eyed these days at the numbers of tourists arriving and departing on State of Washington Ferries. Never in the long history of ferry service between Sidney and Anacortes has traffic approached that of the past 10 days.

Three round trips are being made daily between the two ports. Almost every morning numbers of automobiles are left behind in Sidney, the travellers cooling their heels here until the next vessel arrives.

Some residents recall the days when the ferry from Anacortes stayed overnight in Sidney. They suggest that if State of Washington reintroduced this system, more traffic could be carried on the popular run. It is a suggestion worthy of some intensive study.

Little League Program

The Cowichan area is fortunate in having a group of men, and women, who have been willing to devote considerable time and energy, not to mention money, to promoting organized sport for young boys. They have earned the commendation of their fellow citizens.

However, if this worth-while program is to continue, its sponsors in the Cowichan area will need more tangible support than "commendations." It is to be hoped that the parents of the boys participating in the program, and generous public-spirited citizens without children, in future will give more help to local Little League sponsors in order to assure the continuation of this valuable community activity.

Penalty of Progress

With the village "bursting at the seams" we are bound by the law of averages to be host to many "characters" among the new temporary residents.

The most annoying of these, in the opinion of many permanent residents, are the hoodlum hotrod variety, speeding up and down the highway within village limits with an accompanying squealing of tires in fast get-aways and hooting and hollering to each other as they pass cars.

Not content with using the highway in this fashion, various members of the fraternity have taken to the water. Hiring fast speedboats they spend a portion of their time dashing back and forth on the waterfront without regard for any boats engaged in sport fishing in the vicinity.

We presume that these are some of the penalties of progress and a result of the enormous development of Campbell River district.

—CAMPBELL RIVER COURIER

Liquor and Milk

The comparison between the amount spent on liquor and the amount spent on milk which has been made in a provincial government news release, was an unfortunate one. Regardless of the truth or validity of the comparison, it can only serve to distract the attention of many people from a serious situation—the fact that the per capita consumption of milk in this province is lower than the Canadian average. . . .

We are not too concerned about whether or not the adults of the province are drinking too much liquor, but we are seriously concerned about whether or not the children of the province are drinking enough milk.

By TOM TAYLOR

THE Olympic Games may be an amateur proposition—taking it at face value—but it is professionally carried out, thus reminding us that the terms amateur and professional do not necessarily define degrees of ability.

I note for instance from some facts issued by Austral News, an Australian agency, that a $12,320,000 construction program required for the Melbourne Games this fall—a lot of money, that—is almost completed, even to the inclusion of facilities for women athletes to secure "perms" and "facials" in the Olympic Village.

The lustre of a lady sprinter is not confined to her feet, as you will see.

This village has 850 attractive homes situated on a 115-acre slope, actually a full-scale modern residential community. What will they do with the homes when the Games are over, I wonder. Give them to old-age pensioners? If that be their eventual occupancy the sooner we stage an Olympiad here the better.

* * *

Certainly this would be one way of financing low-rental housing, for money spent on Olympics if not exactly considered a waste is usually kissed goodbye when the tumult and the shouting is over and the captains and the kings depart.

The mortgage is written off without regret, full value having been received.

Talking about kings you would read that some Olympic officials would ban the Duke of Edinburgh from the arena when he attends to open the Melbourne Games. Very revealing, this. The irate Australian press are doubtless correct in saying this proposal—"flapdoodle" they call it—is fashioned lest he steal the show from the officials.

Officials, of any kind, don't like their lights to be put out on their own occasions, even by an illustrious guest. Very natural, but such actions make them seem even smaller in importance. Officials sometimes tend to forget they are merely masters of ceremony, not the ceremony itself.

I should judge the most purely amateur part of the program will take place before the Games begin, when the Olympic flame is flown from Athens, the fount of Olympiads, to a point in Northern Australia. On its journey the plane will touch down at Karachi, Bankok, Singapore and Djakarta, although few contestants will come from these places.

* * *

Thereafter the flame will be carried by runners, 2,746 of them, in a true-blue spirit matching the Olympic ideal. Each runner will carry the torch one mile, and while not one of them is likely to break four minutes over the measured mile route his feat, who knows, may be even more memorable than that which will accompany the mile race in Melbourne.

At least it will be selfless, run anonymously without the plaudits of the multitudes.

The schedule has been worked out meticulously so that the flame will reach the Melbourne Cricket Ground at precisely 4.32 p.m. (Australian time) on November 22, during the opening ceremony of the Games.

This is as professional a calculation as one could wish for.

It remains only for the Games to be equally scrupulous. Some 5,000 male athletes and their attendants, together with about 600 women champions of track and field, will occupy the village, to depart therefrom each morn in quest of honor and glory.

May they comport themselves honorably on and off the field, so that one reads of their progress with admiration and delight, instead of, alas, as is frequently the case, with regret that the Olympic Oath is something to be voiced speedily and just as quickly forgotten.

Letter from London

Modesty in the Wrong Place

By RICHARD L. THOMAS, Daily Colonist Correspondent

DOES the British race suffer from a sort of pathological modesty? The question is prompted by the visit of the King of Iraq and by past state occasions—the monarchs of Norway, Sweden and Denmark, the president of France and those two Russian twins known affectionately as Bulge and Krush. We have had decorated streets, diplomatic dinners, royal occasions and gala performances at the Royal Opera House.

We could add the air displays, the magnificent motorcycle escort for Bulge and Krush, and the quiet traditional dignity of the Household Cavalry for the others. No one delights in these occasions more than the average English citizen. It is his way of sharing in the mysteries of history and experiencing the breath of tradition in a modern and rather frightening world. And we could add nothing delights Americans more. They line the routes, complete with binoculars and cameras and are surely the most paradoxically minded republican royalists in the world.

We and they—and probably you when you are in London—delight in these things. We watch the changing of the guard, we pat a horse on duty at Horse Guards Parade and are mildly amused and possibly grateful for our heritage—a heritage which Americans have pointed out to me is a common heritage.

We do these things and we do them rather well. Why then the reference to pathological modesty? The visitor might perhaps regard it as the opposite—as a rather ostentatious pride in our yesterdays. But the trouble is that such displays are laid on primarily for other people.

* * *

We have just finished a conference of Commonwealth premiers. They have been sitting in London discussing the affairs of the British family and everything has been shrouded in a mist of secrecy. I am willing to wager that the newspapers of Britain did not give as much space in the whole three weeks to all the heads of Commonwealth nations and their activities as they did in one day to the arrival of Miss Marilyn Monroe and a certain Mr. Miller from the United States.

I am still young enough to appreciate the importance of vital statistics. I hope the day will not come when a pretty girl fails to arouse interest. I would not wish to detract from the curvaceous wiggling of Miss Monroe or even her alleged devotion to Dostoyevsky. I have always favored the education of the illiterate and the union of opposites. Was it not Bernard Shaw, when Ellen Terry suggested that they should have a child "with my beauty and your brains,"—obviously a supreme contemplation—dismissed the idea with "But what if it had my beauty and your brains?"; and I would deny to no one the pleasure of Miss Monroe's form, Mr. Miller's brains or even the possible outcome of the Miller alliance.

I merely suggest the remarkable contrast of values. The heads of the Commonwealth come and go largely unknown and unheralded as far as the general public is concerned. We put on grand displays for the heads of foreign states. We devote pages to Miss Monroe and others of her kind, and when we have done our reading we get back to the serious things of life—such as the future of the world and football pools. Our Commonwealth visitors are, it seems, so conspicuously unimportant.

* * *

The idea that the occasion of the meeting of Commonwealth statesmen is a matter of some consequence seems alien to pathological modesty. Surely it would not have been out of place to allow the British public some opportunity of seeing the Empire statesmen in our midst? Would it not be a worthy occasion for the display of family pride even if no more than a ceremonial drive through the streets of London and a gala performance at Covent Garden? It would make some people at least aware of the family of nations and our common heritage. It is possible that it might even make some people think.

Instead we allowed this occasion, as we have others before it, to pass largely unheralded and unnoticed. It should have been a peg on which to hang a little family pride, and one could have hoped that the newspapers could have used the occasion to enlighten the abysmal ignorance of the majority of their readers on the Commonwealth. There were one or two minor efforts—but obviously the British Commonwealth has not a fraction of the interest of the lush proportions of Miss Monroe.

* * *

It seems almost as though Britons take it for granted that the family is present in time of trouble but otherwise is not nearly as important as the smaller European kingdoms—that is judged by the display we give and the opportunities we miss. It is about time that Britons were informed—as kindly as possible—that if it was not for the British Commonwealth we would starve to death because of inadequate food supplies and have no money to buy anywhere else if the Commonwealth did not take most of what we make.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

FOR years and years, around the wood pile at the back of his summer cabin, a neighbor of mine has allowed the chips to accumulate. Year after year as the local settlers who supplied him his stove wood did their chopping and splitting prior to piling, the chips large and small built up a sort of carpet around the wood pile.

Down the slope from the wood pile a distance of 50 feet and more a vigorous little grove of pines, oaks and several very beautiful red cedars, tall and splender as European cypresses, flourished.

Two years ago, my neighbor's wife, who has been complaining about the chip yard for 20 years, staged a powerful campaign to have the chips cleared up. She pointed out that they would make wonderful kindling. She argued that they should have been consumed as kindling season by season, instead of allowing them to lie and rot back into the earth. At all events, the husband surrendered. After all he was getting a little old in the joints to go walking back into the woods with a couple of bushel baskets, as he had been doing for years, collecting dead branches off pines for their kindling. That had been one of his pet enjoyments.

So he got the rake and raked the chip yard. He made little piles of the less rotted chips and stacked them to dry for kindling. The older and more decayed strata of the years he shovelled into bushel baskets and carted back to the incinerator where he burned it all. His wife, inspired by this exhibition of industry and initiative, got a broom and tidied up the chip yard. When her husband sat down for a smoke she seized the rake, and bushel by bushel the ancient chips were unearthed, dug up, swept away.

"There," she cried, when the job was done, "doesn't that look lovely now?"

That was two years ago. This summer when they arrived at their cabin they were horrified at the sight of the grove down the slope from the wood pile. Every tree in it was pining. A couple of the red cedars were already half brown.

The chip yard had been the source of their health. Leached by summer rain and winter snow, the chip yard had been feeding humus and decay, which is the mother of growth, down into the grove.

Relief Plan Launched

WITHOUT waiting to hear from Ottawa, British Columbia set in motion its own plan for unemployment relief, 25 years ago. There was no time to lose. Following prairie crop failures, destitute families were beginning to stream west into B.C., aggravating a situation that was already acute.

Hon. R. W. Bruhn, B.C.'s minister of public works, announced a program which included registration of all persons in need, and setting up of work camps.

Frank Ormond Morris, of the Willows school, and Georgine Albertine Lennartz, Sidney school, were among those who won the Governor-General's bronze medal for high standing in B.C. high school entrance examinations.

"A gangland execution squad accidentally mowed down five children at play on a New York street, but missed their intended victim. Police attributed the incident to a "beer war" between rival Harlem and Bronx gangsters. Alcoholic beverages were still (theoretically) prohibited in the United States.

SAILORS' boarding houses in Victoria and Vancouver were under investigation 50 years ago because of charges that men were shanghaied from them and pressed into the crews of ships against their will.

A survey showed that the San Francisco earthquake and fire caused insurance companies a net loss of $132,813,067.

"The British Columbia Electric Railway Company have shifted their headquarters to their handsome new (building) at the corner of Fort and Langley streets." . . . Baron Komura, Japanese ambassador to Britain, passed through Victoria. . . . Revolt against Russian rule broke out in Finland. Sailors mutinied. Workmen proclaimed a general strike.

Anything to get attention. That was the advertiser's motto 50 years ago, as it is now. However, they went about it in a different way in 1906, as this advertisement shows: "'What shall we do to be saved?' was the title of one of Robert Ingersoll's lectures. People of faith and no faith flocked to hear it. Thousands are asking: 'What shall I do to get rid of dandruff?' The answer is, 'Kill the germ that causes dandruff . . .' and the only thing that will do it is Newbro's Herpicide."

"THE new bridge which crosses the arm of the harbor above Rock Bay" was in dangerous condition, the British Colonist reported, 95 years ago.

"One of the railings of the draw is entirely gone, leaving a space of 20 feet, through which the largest vehicle in town might be driven into the water, wholly unprotected. This rail has been off since Tuesday last, when a number of cattle broke it down and fell through into the water. Yesterday two narrow escapes from drowning were made by men whose animals shied in this dangerous locality."

Who's To Judge?

One wonders how a woman should consider herself competent to judge whether soldiers of great experience, such as Generals Simonds and Pearkes have proved themselves to be, are incompetent to judge matters of defence. Mr. Campney is the political minister of defence, but beyond theories what has been his practical experience? Col. George Drew has at least been in contact with military operations out of doors in the field, not behind a desk.

It would be greatly to the advantage of the country to have a first-class military man of experience in the position of minister of defence irrespective of party affiliations, instead of a politician, however urbane and inflexible. This is putting the matter in plain language, which I think is easier to understand.

Distressing Idea

From whatever standpoint one looks at it, the suggested children's zoo is wrong and unnecessary. Beacon Hill park with its flowers, quiet walks and peaceful atmosphere is a much-loved retreat for many elderly people, which it can hardly continue to be if the unwelcome project goes through.

What possible educational value can there be in allowing young animals to be handed around for children to maul, probably snatched from child to child (I have seen a tug-of-war with a kitten before now). As to the school board handling the zoo, they seem to have plenty on their hands already.

There are surely enough attractions in the park for children — pools, swings, etc. If not, beaches are near, also playgrounds which would seem to be logical places for children to play. Thus the park would retain its peace and quiet dear to many old folk who have no chance of going farther afield.

I hope this protest re the zoo grows until the distressing idea is abandoned.

Beating the Drum

Peter Bruton's column (July 26) is a gem. What he says is indicative of the way the Social Credit government has been acting right along.

What is the use of wasting time on press conferences with the premier if he monopolizes the conference with boastful statements coming out in a constant stream, not giving the reporters a chance to ask a question, questions being the basis of any proper press interview?

Why does Mr. Bennett need to be constantly beating the drum? Surely he does not think people are altogether stupid.

The campaign of constant ridicule carried on by the Social Credit machine against Her Majesty's loyal opposition is anything but conducive to good government and public respect for our parliamentary system which, after all, is the real foundation.

Amber Means 'Slow'

Some pedestrian is likely to be badly injured at Hillside and Shelbourne unless steps are taken for greater safety.

The menace is chiefly the habit of far too many auto drivers on Hillside speeding across Shelbourne in apparent total disregard of the flashing amber light. They act as if the amber light is intended to speed them up, instead of its true purpose: to slow them down to cautiously crossing Shelbourne.

It is to be hoped that the authorities in charge will do something about this.

Bedside Flowers

Just a note of appreciation and thanks to the people of Victoria who donated the flowers for the beautiful bouquet at my bedside.

Flowers really do a lot to brighten up a hospital room. My thanks also to The Daily Colonist for the part they played in sending me the flowers.

If you are wondering if the plan is a success, I'd say yes in capital letters.

Matter of Right

I was pleased to see the letter of Mr. W. F. Cressall under the above heading, as I feel very strongly on the subject of non-payment of old-age pensions outside the country.

In most cases the pensions have been earned by many years of hard work and in my view it is interfering with the liberty of the subject to prevent a small minority of these old people with only a short time left to them, from living where they please. No country wants destitute old folks.

The Cowichan-Newcastle area around Duncan was largely built up by retired servicemen living on their British pensions, payable anywhere. Many prominent men to whom I have written have expressed sympathy and agreement. Acts of parliament can be amended when hardship is proved.

A PADRE IN PRINT

BY REV. WILLIAM HILLS

Nobody should expect to reach maturity without receiving one or two hard knocks from life. All reasonable people will confirm that opinion.

Yet when these moments of crisis and distress enter our experience, they bring with them a stab of pain for which (to steal a title from a Howard Spring novel) there is no armor.

Concerning such pain is a letter I have received this week from a reader of this column.

It tells of that betrayal which pierces to the quick, the abuse of confidences outpoured to a friend.

I have written privately to my correspondent and I hope that God has given me the inspiration to say those things which needed most to be said and the understanding to speak them gently.

We do not know too much about Fielding's early years, but it may be that he suffered the adversity of inconstant friends.

At any rate, one master of English literature has pointed out that "Fielding had not a great soul; but he had a great heart." Herein lies the clue.

We All Need Friends

All of us need friends.

"There is nothing," says Archbishop Renison, "that this world needs more than friendship, between nations, between races of different languages and color, between men and women of various classes of our artificial modern society.

"The lack of friendship and understanding is the very greatest of human tragedies."

But what constitutes a friend?

In the literature of Arabia there is this definition:

"A friend is one to whom one may pour out all the content of one's heart, chaff and grain together, knowing that the gentlest of hands will take and sift it, keep what is worth keeping, and with the breath of kindness blow the rest away."

If I may dare affront the so-called "scientific humanists" I should like to remind you of one of the great comforts of the Christian faith.

In Jesus Christ, the believer finds "a friend that sticketh closer than a brother."

I have borrowed those words from the old books of Proverbs but experience proves them to be true.

Driver Dies; Crash Stops Two Jaguars

LE MANS, France (UP) — Fatal injury of a French driver and swift elimination of two of the factory Jaguars in one accident marked the early hours of the famed Le Mans sports car race yesterday.

Louis Hery was fatally injured when his tiny Panhard flipped and burned. Jaguars driven by Jack Fairman and Paul Frere were involved in a crash with the Marquis de Portago's Ferrari, which flipped end over end.

Road Not Widened

Landowners Upset By Broken Promise

SIDNEY—Commencement of construction at North Saanich High school has brought strong protests from neighboring property owners.

"When we subdivided our land," said a spokesman for the group, "a piece was taken from us to allow for widening the present road.

"This hasn't been done with the school property and now they are building so that any widening on the north side of Rest Haven drive is impossible.

RULES VIOLATED

"Also, the structure is only about 12 feet from the road, violating the rule that calls for a building to be at least 25 feet from the property line."

A meeting of the North Saanich Regulated Area Appeal Board held yesterday was unable to resolve the problem. It will be considered further next week.

Crash Victim Identified

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Police have identified a man killed Friday afternoon near here as Patrick Earl Kearns, about 60, of Penticton.

Kearns, a flagman with a construction company, was run over by a truck on highway 97 about 10 miles north of Summerland.

An inquest Saturday ruled the death was accidental.

Patient Police Sort, Sift

By WILLIAM MARSHALL
Special to the Colonist

Late Saturday at Vancouver police station, officially described as the public safety building.

Scene is one of the calmest and coolest in town despite the lengthy list of criminal offences listed in Vancouver on a typical weekend.

The police radio is sounding reports of a "big fight at Robson and Granville," "man down at Cordova and Powell" (just outside the station) "drunk annoying at Whatsit hotel."

During the week the book has been crowded with reports of peeping Tom offences, a suburban store-post office has been cleaned out, a boom has been recorded in the traditional skid road crimes of strong-arming, "rolling" and wallet-lifting.

But the only visible sign of cops-and-robbers activity is in the youth detail office where two nine-year-olds have been caught with a shopping bag full of lifted goods.

Immediate question is whether the youngsters should be charged—they've been in trouble before—or just warned. Laughing suggestion is made to charge them with carrying a concealed weapon dangerous to the public: a water pistol.

At the accident report counter activity is also at a minimums following an early day rush of reports on Friday night—bad driving night—accidents.

But girls and police cadets on the counter getting verbal abuse from citizens who blame them because cars have been impounded.

The 'beef' isn't a fair one because the people at the report counter obviously have nothing to do with issuance of traffic offence notices or impounding of cars.

Their orders are not to release cars except to registered owners and this is what often causes friction.

But there are some weird complaints being mulled over at the station as the week's business gets tallied up.

Case of the clothesline dispute for instance:

In this one a woman phoned in to complain that a neighbor was stringing washing across the complainant's yard, interfering with free passageway.

Business was finally straightened, but next day police heard from the woman who had hung out the clothes.

The complaint was to the effect the neighbor had "cut a door" in one of the sheets, to clear a route through her yard.

But it all adds to the fun and contributes to the expected total of 15,000 complaints police will take at the complaint centre in Vancouver this year.

"TEE" FOR TWO

BY MAURICE HUMBER

I was just about to drive from the 17th tee.
When a car pulled up & "she" waved at me.
I hollered "Hi," right back (& offside to my pal),
"For Pete's Sake . . . who IS this gal??"
"Duno?" he hunched . . . snickering at my plea,
"Slide over to the fence & have a look see??"
I batted some twigs, as over I went.
Out of the seat she was stretched & bent.

"Now . . . don't pretend you know who I am.
Better go back . . . & let's see you slam."
There were others in the car, she in the back.
At a clump of grass I gave a slight wack.
Then I tossed my ball up in the air.
I could hear the others laughing in there.
I was stalling for time, & thinkin' fast.
Driving my memory . . . deep in the past.
But I just kept slicing . . . couldn't hit.
So I sed, "in 20 years . . . you've not changed a bit.
"Ha," she snorted, "still slinging that salve.
Well, if I haven't changed . . . YOU CERTAINLY HAVE.

Savage Unsoothed

By JOHN CROSBY

I'm one of those old-fashioned fellows who has always felt there was something vaguely indecent about a girl playing a trombone. The 19th Amendment gave the girls the right to vote, but there's nothing in there about letting them play the trombone.

On the Ina Ray Hutton show, girls not only play trombone, but clarinets, saxophones, accordion, electric organ, drums and other manner of noise-makers calculated to soothe the savage breast, according to Congreve.

There must be something wrong with this savage breast because all-girl bands don't soothe it at all. The Ina Ray Hutton aggregation is not only awfully all-girl, but terribly aggressive about it.

"No man allowed" is the legend that appears before the [illegible] and is repeated by Miss Hutton with what seems like unnecessary relish several times. "No men allowed — yessirree!" is the way she puts it, and you can hardly put it more strongly than that. Consequently, a certain amount of bias may creep into these remarks.

Well, then, The Ina Ray Hutton show indulges in songs whose titles are sometimes heavily flavored by girls' names — "Dinah," "Josephine," "Margie" — a style that might be described as early Statler Ballroom.

The girls are all done up to the nines in evening gowns and [illegible] floor in a pool of light, conducting the operation with great vehemance, as if it were taking place between halves of a football game.

There are also all-girl guests like Yma Sumac, who are posed against a backdrop of foliage or maybe a fountain and who sing. Well, the singing part of it is all right. It's just those lady trombone players that seem wrong somehow.

There's a great deal of music drifting out on the summer air this year. In that regard, television is getting to resemble radio in the [illegible] days. When the regular shows dropped off for the summer, the radio networks just threw in either a band or a singer. This made more sense on radio than on television.

Music has always been peculiarly suited to radio, whereas writers, directors and producers have always been more than a little baffled by it on television. They can't just let a song go by without adding writing, direction and production, which adds nothing and sometimes detracts.

An example of this is the new Vic Damone show. Mr. Damone has a pleasant way with a song, great self assurance, and a nodding acquaintance with comedy lines, but he's been hobbled by dialogue that Henry Irving could hardly get away with.

* * *

I don't know what it is about singers that brings out all the cuteness in the writers, but, by George, they all treat them as if they were in their first year in high school. "How do you like my dress?" "Honey, it's terrific." Or, "Say, that's a nice jacket." "My wife picked it out." That's a sample of the by-play which went on in the first Vic Damone show (which also included a sort of kissing game) and considering that this badinage was passed around between expensive guests, it seems like a waste of time.

However, when they get down to the business at hand, which is music, it's a pleasant enough show. One thing about musical shows this summer, it seems to me, is the quality of the selections is very high. You hear a lot of the old standards — Gershwin, Rodgers and Hart, and Jerome Kern numebrs, and for that I'm very grateful.

Laurel and Hardy

Profitless Popularity on TV May Aid Comics' Film Return

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The veteran laugh-getting team of Laurel and Hardy has suffered physical setbacks, but the comedians are planning a film return to cash in on their immense TV popularity.

For 30 years, the gaunt, sad-eyed Englishman and his rotund, slow burning companion have delighted audiences with their slapstick antics. In recent years, reissue of old films on TV has brought them their greatest popularity.

NO PROFITS

Unfortunately, they have been unable to profit from their renewed fame. They get nothing for the constant televising of their old films, made for a flat salary in the days before actors were hep to percentage deals. Illness has kept them from going ahead with comeback offers.

They lead quiet lives in modest homes 20 miles apart, seldom seeing each other but keeping in touch by telephone.

Oliver Hardy, the big one, lives on a busy street in Van Nuys in the heart of the San Fernando valley. His fans might have difficulty recognizing him these days. His hair is thin and gray, and his multitude of chins has diminished.

LOST 150 POUNDS

"Yes, I've lost 150 pounds," he remarked as he seated himself in his study. "I got pneumonia when we were touring England two years ago. My heart was jumping around a bit, and I got asthma, too. When I got back here, I went to the hospital for a checkup, and the doctors told me I should lose weight.

"My wife, who's a good taskmaster, kept me on a strict salt-free diet with a limit of calories. No, I didn't miss eating. I never really was a tremendous eater. It was the drinking. I drank a lot of beer, and always there were guys around Lakeside golf course asking you to have a drink. I did it not because I liked the stuff, but because it seemed friendly.

WEIGHT UNKNOWN

"I never did know how much I weighed, because most scales don't go over 300. I know I was over 350. Now I'm down to 210."

Hardy, who is 64, said they had been unable to resume work because his partner—the thin one—suffered a stroke a year ago.

"But he's better now," he added, "and as soon as Stan is feeling up to it, we want to start a series. It will be on film, not live. All the comedians on live shows have heart attacks or get sick; that's not for us."

He remarked that they get more fan mail and public recognition now than at the peak of their movie fame.

Budding Shaw Hailed

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's most precocious playwright, 18-year-old Michael Hastings, says he eventually wants to become "either a bullfighter, prizefighter or distance runner."

The first play by the thin, wry tailor's apprentice opened in London last week. Another has been accepted for production here this fall.

Critics gave a mixed reception to the first play, "Don't Destroy Me," but most of them predicted a brilliant future for its author. One compared Hastings' "Mixture of Anger and Mischief" to the style of George Bernard Shaw.

The dark-haired young writer shrugs off both praise and criticism. Speaking in a soft, serious voice, he said:

"I never had an education. I got kicked out of school when I was 15 so I was never taught how to put a sentence together. I still can't.

Hastings works 11 hours a day in a tailor shop for about £7 weekly. He normally sleeps only four hours a night and uses his spare time for writing.

When a British fashion writer accused Marilyn Monroe of parading a "spare tire" that others would try to disguise, the voluptuous actress retorted, "Any woman who dresses to please women is only fooling herself. She's not fooling other women."—(CPC)

Farm Talks For Veterans

Papers and discussions on planned farming, loose housing and self-feeding arrangements as applied to dairy and beef enterprises will be featured at meetings being organized by Vancouver Island officials of the Veterans' Land Act.

The meetings are scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Saanichton Experimental Farm, 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Luxton Hall, and 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Canadian Legion Hall, Ganges.

Members of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association and other interested persons have been invited to attend.

VLA field staff hopes that production line farming will assist farmers to maintain a financial position in the nations' basic industry despite the present economic squeeze, it was stated.

Intellectuals Hail Marilyn

At Last the Thinker Got the Girl

By BERNARD KAPLAN

PARIS (NANA) — Marilyn Monroe, who had already stacked up a fulsome international reputation as a "love symbol" and movie siren, has scored heavily for America's intellectual prestige overseas.

By marrying Pulitzer prize-winning playwright Arthur Miller, a survey of French intellectuals shows, Miss Monroe has convinced the Gallic thinkers that the United States is brainier than had been thought.

(Which may not be saying too much, since the feeling in Paris' cafe-temples of intellectualism had been that the collective U.S. brain could be encased in a pea pod without squeezing.)

One French magazine quite seriously hailed the wedding as a "minor triumph for America's small intellectual elite." And a stroll through St. Germain des Pres, headquarters of French intellectualism, showed that the union was a leading topic among the professors, writers, poets and more vaguely occupied thinkers.

One thing that hit them was that Miss Monroe went ahead and married her man even while he was under fire for alleged left-wing connections.

"I did not believe that such things could happen in the United States," said a young writer for the French journals of opinion as he sipped an Alsace beer on the sidewalk of the Cafe Lipp. "It is refreshing."

"In France, it would not have been unusual," explained a lecturer at the Political and Economics Institute. "French women of beauty prefer brilliance to any other quality in a man. But in America, it seems that the thinking man never wins the heroine. It is always the business man or the owner of a string of race horses.

"To me, this shows there is more to America than I ever realized before."

Miller's name is well known in France. As a beauty and certainly as an actress, French enthusiasm for Miss Monroe until now had been fairly well restrained. But there seems little doubt that henceforth she will be looked at in a different light.

"She has great strength of character," a rather elderly novelist declared. "She is making other Americans peer deep into their own consciences at the way they have scorned men who earn their livings with their brains.

"For the great American love symbol to have done this is a tremendous achievement. It means the death of conformity in the most important nation in the world."

The couple is sure to receive a tumultuous welcome here during their planned sojourn in Europe. To Frenchmen of all kinds, intellectual or not, love is still more important than governments.

Television in Europe

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

INTERNATIONAL CHANNELS (NANA) — In Paris they call it "C'est Votre Vie" — first-course French for "This Is Your Life." Nothing mysterious about the program here. For instance, when Gina Lollobrigida's life was TV'd, she kinescoped it two weeks ahead of the actual showing. Makes it smooth, but certainly cuts the surprise element.

TV stars Ben Lyon and wife, Bebe Daniels, are in Majorca for a five-week vacation—rather, Bebe is. Ben has to fly back to London every week to moderate "I've Got a Secret." . . . How come the British don't invent more shows of their own? Most of the good ones are copies of American programs.

The Joan Davis-Jim Backus "I Married Joan" series has arrived on London TV.

Anatole Litvak told me in London that he will direct the NBC spectacular, "Mayerling"—with Audrey Hepburn and Mel Ferrer. The network flew a writer to Britain to work with Litvak, who is very busy directing Ingrid Bergman in "Anastasia."

When I asked Anthony Quinn in Paris, "Do you have any TV plans?" he replied, "I'd like to avoid television as long as possible." None the less, Tony has a pilot on film, "The Gallery." And every week, if sold, a famous painting will come to life. Sounds like a good idea.

Learned in Munich that television is negligible in Germany although there are around 500 TV sets—starts at 4:30 in the afternoon and can go to 11 p.m. But there also can be intervals of two hours of nothing between shows. Yes, they show old movies—but German, not American.

There's even less for TV fans in Switzerland—just a couple of hours every evening . . . and in Italy, there are 350,000 TV sets, where they are still considered quite a luxury. There is one channel with mostly cultural and educational programs.

The top show is a "Double or Nothing" type quiz program and its master of ceremonies, Mike Bongiorno, is one of Italy's leading personalities—he's as popular as Gina Lollobrigida.

Films Stake Future on $50,000,000 Worth of Epics

. . . Bringing End of Era

An era in show business appears to be ending. Circuses are folding, television is booming and the motion picture industry is undergoing a revolution. The following article details the change.

BY ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — What is the state of the movie business? Industry observers agree that a 50-year era that saw film theatres as top dog in the entertainment world is drawing to a close.

This year Hollywood is gambling its future on a rash of epic pictures that cost nearly $50,000,000.

Movies aren't the only victim of the show business revolution. The big circuses are folding; big nightclubs are fading and may be extinct except in New York and Las Vegas.

Television may not be the prime reason, but the pattern of American life is changing, with activities centred around the automobile, backyard barbecue, the do-it-yourself-movement and TV set.

Whatever the reasons, revolutionary signs in the movie industry have been increasing.

Warner studio sold its backlog of films to television. When traditional MGM recently announced it would rent its old films to TV—including "The Wizard of Oz" to CBS—theatre exhibitors objected and even ex-MGM-ite Clark Gable complained.

Net profits at the big movie studios have dropped, some as much as 40 per cent.

Most film-makers think the trend will be toward the release of fewer pictures a year, most of them supercolossal epics. Many will be made by independent producers without studio overhead to worry about, while the studios concentrate on TV films.

This year more multi-million-dollar films are being released than at any time in history. As one producer says, "If these movies won't draw them into the theatres, nothing will."

Many film makers feel the fate of Hollywood hinges on what happens to these pictures at the boxoffice: "The Ten Commandments" (cost $13,000,000), "War and Peace" ($6,000,000), "The King and I," ($4,300,000), "Moby Dick," ($4,300,000), "Giant" ($5,000,000).

So far, the pictures that have been released are doing well. But whether the tremendous investment will pay off in the long run won't be known until the final returns are in.

Business has not been good at many of the studios. MGM's net profit for the fiscal year ending June 7 was down 40 per cent. So was Columbia's. Quarterly earnings announced by 20th Century-Fox were a $1,000,000 less than the year before.

However, observers don't think the revolution means the end of the movie business. One expert predicts within five years, the 19,000 U.S. movie theatres (4,000 drive-ins and 15,000 "hardtops") will dwindle to 10,000. Those few theatres will show super-colossal epics and "adult" pictures (minus a production code seal) that can't be seen on the family TV set. Pay-TV may mean top movies at home.

A top director, John Huston, maker of "Moby Dick," recently said, "I'm not pessimistic. Anyone that didn't see this coming must have been blind. Back in 1950 I predicted the studios would make fewer pictures, and they were sore as hell!

"But I repeat—an average studio is down to 20 pictures a year. Soon it will be making 10. People who say they can't make pictures at big budgets will change their tune. Within two years we'll be getting many $10,000,000 pictures, and if that doesn't happen we may as well all quit and start working for television."

Europe's Glamour Queens

Busy Brigitte Mirror of French Youth

This is the fourth of a series by Joe Hyams, who has interviewed Europe's top feminine movie stars to find out the secret of the charm of the European woman.

BY JOE HYAMS

PARIS—The leading glamour girl of France today is a lithe blonde with the face and the dancing talent of Leslie Caron, the peekaboo hair style of Veronica Lake and the amoral appeal of the heroine of "Bonjour Tristesse."

Her name is Brigitte Bardot and in films she usually plays a gypsy beauty struggling to break through the bounds of traditional French morality.

Miss Bardot, who was a model at twelve and a professional dancer at fourteen, has made 15 pictures in the last three years. She has a tremendously loyal fan following.

On screen she is the magic mirror in which French youth sees itself. Her personal idol is the late James Dean.

Off screen Miss Bardot, who is 21, is a shy introverted young lady who proudly boasts that she has never been to a beauty parlor or a hairdresser — and looks the worse for it.

BRIGITTE BARDOT

". . . I don't want to play old women."

Fingers Before Combs

She has long shoulder-length blonde hair which she uses as a hedge when she feels shy and as a prop when she poses for pictures. When she wants to appear demure she piles the hair on top of her head or pig-tails it. When she wants to appear sexy she nibbles on a few strands or half hides behind it.

She owns no comb and has no need for one. "Fingers were invented first," she says.

The only time she wears undergarments is when there is a stiff breeze blowing, and she refuses to wear any dress or blouse which will hide her shoulders.

She has a fantastically small waist (18 inches) and a comparative large bust (36 inches), with slim hips (34 inches).

Miss Bardot could have been transplanted from the beach at St. Tropez to Greenwich Village in New York without missing a beat.

Her English is not very good but she said she is "working on it" in the hope of making a film in America.

She said she believed her popularity in France stemmed from the fact that she is a typical French girl. "I am the kind of girl every man in France has a chance to meet," she said.

"I play myself in films. I am not good enough to play something else. That is why I like simple, wild and sexy parts."

How long does she think she can last playing herself? "I would like to stop acting when I am old—thirty-five. I don't want to play old women."

Modern Play Needs Truth For Success

By WARD MOREHOUSE

NEW YORK (NANA) — Elia Kazan, the brilliant director whose stage and screen productions have included "A Streetcar Named Desire," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," "On the Waterfront" and the forthcoming "Baby Doll," got to talking this week of the three media — theatre, motion pictures and television.

"To be successful today a play has to have truth," he said. "It has to hit home somewhere. It has to mean something to people. Take Tennessee Williams.

"He writes about things people are really concerned with. His 'Streetcar Named Desire' and Arthur Miller's 'Death of a Salesman' are just about the two best plays I've ever known.

"I haven't done any directing for TV—not yet. But I feel I'll end up making pictures for television. I dread the thought of it, really, because it involves big advertisers.

TV HELPED

I think television has helped the theatre, but it's killing off the movies.

Elia Kazan, born in Turkey, has thick, wavy black hair and very intense, direct speech. He hasn't a new play for Broadway at the moment but he's fascinated with Budd Schulberg's "A Face in the Crowd" and will begin shooting this picture for Warners in mid-August at the little town of Piggott, Ark. (Pop. 2,500).

Andy Griffith, who was a New York sensation all of last season as the drawling hillbilly in "No Time For Sergeants," is to have the leading role.

"That fellow Griffith has it," went on Kazan, known as Gadge to his profession. "He'll be one of the big ones. So will Carroll Baker. You'll see her when 'Baby Doll' is released. I found her at the Actors' Studio, which really does some wonderful things.

"I think we're all in for a big period in the theatre. The world theatre really is based on our American plays. What we need is an American theatre dedicated to putting before the public the great American plays.

"We have a great dramatic literature in this country and it should be kept before the public."

Combing Coal Fields

Singing Professor Hunts Folk Music

By ARTHUR SCHOLES
North American Newspaper Alliance

Guitar-playing John Greenway, associate professor of English at the University of Denver, Colo., is combing the coalfield area of northern New South Wales for songs that might be hits in 1960.

He believes old songs and half-forgotten ballads like "Botany Bay" and "Widdecombe Fair" may be found on the Australian coalfields.

An authority on folk songs, Dr. Greenway is spending six months in Australia singing and lecturing about them. He is seeking and studying any he finds that reflects the social and economic patterns of life "down under."

Already he has a list of 300 songs discovered in Australia, though not all are folk songs. He is spending much time in the coalfield area because he feels there must be many other songs remembered by coalfield residents, particularly of the older generations.

His reason for this belief stems from a search he made in the U.S. He found a Kentucky miner's wife, formerly of Northumberland, England, who knew many ancient and genuine songs. Among those she gave him were several Robin Hood ballads that had not previously been collected in America.

LECTURE ENCORE

Dr. Greenway, in a lecture at Newcastle University college, played his guitar and sang songs to illustrate his subject.

His lecture was probably the first ever given at the college at which the students applauded and shouted for more.

He was persuaded to continue singing folk songs for a quarter of an hour longer than scheduled.

Even then some of the students were not satisfied. They cornered him in the lecture room later and prompted him to sing an Australian ballad.

Dr. Greenway defined folk songs as songs of social and economic protest concerned with the interest of other folk. There were two types, the ballad and the folk song proper.

He said old folk songs were full of "manslaughter and "bold bawdy." But many of the words had been changed in Victorian times.

He said "The Yellow Rose of Texas," recently on the U.S. Hit Parade, was a Negro civil war song.

Famed Quartet To Play Here

By DAVID FRANCIS

The most "frequently broadcast string quartet on the North American continent, Vancouver's Rimanoczy String Quartet, will give a concert at the summer School of Eduction at 8.15 p.m. Wednesday in Oak Bay Junior High School.

"Members of the general public interested in the quartet's type of music are welcome," Prof. Robert Wallace, director of the school, said.

Founded in 1939 by violinist Jean de Rimanoczy, who is now assistant conductor of the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra, the quartet is embarked on its first recital tour of western provinces.

Its reputation is founded on its fabulous volume of work for the CBC trans-Canada and regional networks—as many as 74 concerts in one season.

Worry, Worry That's Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—After 15 years as one of Hollywood's most popular leading men and one of its top wage earners, here is a performer who, if he had it to do all over again, would have no part of the town or its movie business.

It's not only that handsome John Carroll, now a heavy draw on the nitery circuit, is embittered by his experiences in movieland—he's mad clean through!

"Moviemaking provided me with a modest fortune—which I didn't squander—but I never found anything resembling happiness in Hollywood," he said. "It was nothing but worry—worry getting to the top, worry trying to stay there."

An actor with an educated singing voice—he studied under Victor Chesnais in Italy—Carroll was cast in one musical movie after another. And how did he sing? He didn't!

"I just stood out there on the sound stage like an idiot and opened my mouth, wiggled my tongue and pounded my chest—but not a note came out," he declared in a voice shaking as he recalled the frustration. "They always hired some other fellow to dub in my singing voice. They claimed my voice wasn't suitable for the sound tracks used in those days."

John's voice booms enthusiastically as he insists he needs Hollywood no longer. He saved his money.

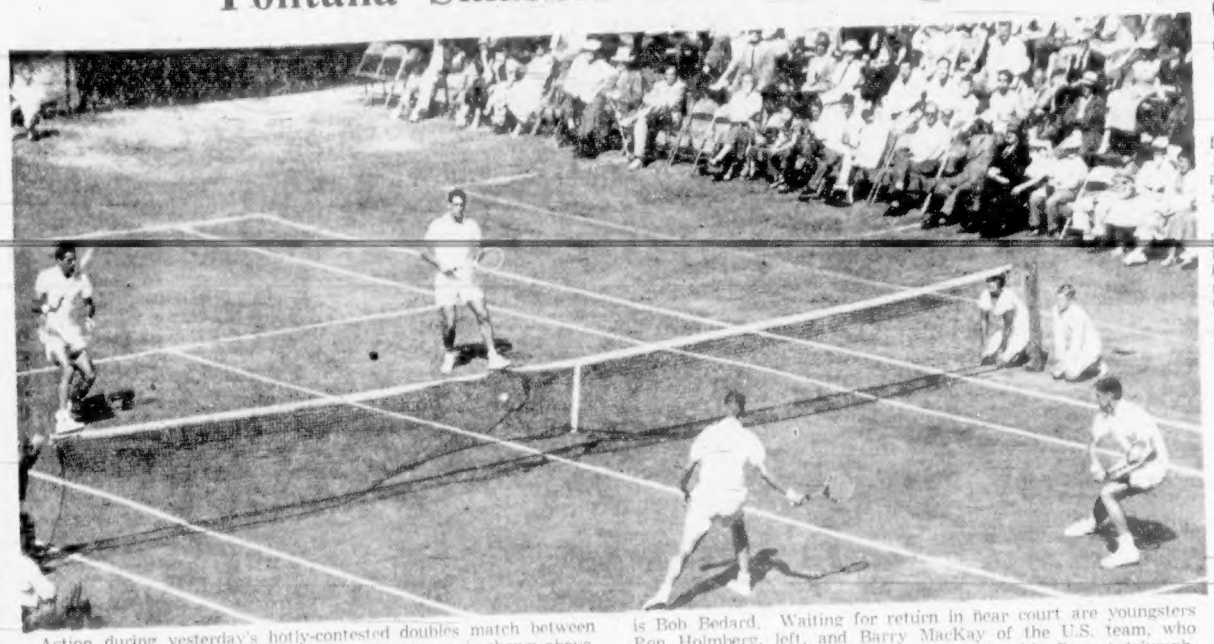
Fontana Smashes One into Nets



Action during yesterday's hotly-contested doubles match between the United States and Canadian Davis Cup teams is shown above. Don Fontana of the Canadian team, at left in far court, has just netted as he tried a sizzling cross-court volley. Fontana's partner is Bob Bedard. Waiting for return in near court are youngsters Ron Holmberg, left, and Barry MacKay of the U.S. team, who clinched North American zone semi-final with five-set triumph. (See story alongside.)

Youthful Doubles Duo Scores Clinching Win

By IAN GLENDAY

Ron Holmberg and Barry MacKay, a pair of promising juniors making their first start in Davis Cup competition, clinched the North American zone semi-finals for the United States yesterday when they edged the Canadian team of Bob Bedard and Don Fontana in a five-set thriller.

Combined with opening-day singles victories chalked up by Hamilton Richardson and Herbie Flam, yesterday's doubles triumph gave the Americans an unsurmountable 3-0 lead in the best-of-five series and gave the U.S. a berth in the final against Mexico.

BREAK FOR FANS

Although today's two singles matches will be anticlimactic, tennis fans should see some top-flight action. By request of the host Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, the United States will send Richardson against Bedard, Canada's top-ranked swinger, in the opening match. Final match will pit Vancouver's Paul Willey against the stylish MacKay.

Holmberg, stocky 18-year-old Brooklyn player who won the all-England junior championship at Wimbledon this year, and his lanky Dayton, Ohio partner justified the faith placed in them by non-playing U.S. captain Billy Talbert.

The youngsters, who both appear to have a promising future, finally won out in a three-hour marathon, 6-3, 3-6, 10-12, 6-4, 6-3, that produced what was easily the best and most exciting of the two days of play on the VLTBC's lush grass courts.

THRILL LARGE CROWD

But the Canadian team, which has had a good deal more experience in international tournaments, went down fighting to the end and for a brief moment gave the 1,200 spectators hope that they could conquer the zealous Americans.

The booming serves and overheads of the Americans proved the difference. Holmberg lost his serve only twice in the five sets, both breaks coming in the long third set. MacKay's serve was cracked three times but the stylish junior was dynamite at the nets with his sharp volleys that left the Canadians little chance for a return.

Bedard held his serve on all but two occasions while Fontana, who appeared to tire in the late stages, lost his serve four times. However, Fontana, badly beaten by Richardson in singles yesterday, showed a big improvement yesterday and teamed with Bedard well.

INEXPERIENCE SHOWS

Over-anxiousness cost the Americans several chances to end things quicker. In the third set, they had four set points at 5-3 with Holmberg serving but MacKay netted three times and the Canadians fought back and went on to win it.

Trailing 2-1 in sets the Americans came out fresh after a 20-minute intermission and went after the Canadian team in deadly fashion. Recovering from erratic play that featured their game in the second and third sets, the U.S. pair swept into a 5-3 lead and held two set points with MacKay serving before losing it.

However, they cracked Fontana's serve in a deuce game to win out 6-4 and with MacKay playing brilliantly at the net and putting volley after volley away, had little trouble in closing out the final set at 6-3.

Emery Hurls Victoria Team To Provincial Babe Ruth Title

Special to the Colonist

NEW WESTMINSTER — Brilliant pitching by Dave Emery and the timely hitting of Robin Barnes gave the Victoria Babe Ruth all-stars a 4-1 victory over Vancouver Moose in the championship final of the British Columbia Babe Ruth baseball tournament here Saturday night.

It was Victoria's third straight victory in the week-long tournament and earned the starry Island club a berth in the regional finals at Cheyenne, Wyoming.

GOING TO WYOMING

Team officials announced last night that Victoria will definitely make the trip to the Wyoming city for the regional final and that the club will leave Vancouver Aug. 7.

Last night's victory capped a brilliant showing by the Victoria all-stars, who were making their second appearance in the provincial championships. Victoria was knocked out in the second round of the tournament at Vancouver last year.

Emery again turned in an outstanding mound performance. The Victoria righthander, who tossed a no-hitter at New Westminster Americans in a 5-0 victory Wednesday night, was touched for only two hits in the final. Emery struck out 11 to make it 24 in his two games and he allowed only three runners to advance to third base.

The two hits, both singles, came in the third and fifth innings as Moose scored its only run on a walk, stolen base, error and wild pitch. The Vancouver club threatened in the final inning but Emery worked himself out of a jam and the game ended with a Vancouver runner cut down between second and third base on an attempted steal.

FOUR HITS

Victoria picked up only four hits off hard-throwing Moose left-hander George Munro, but it was Robin Barnes' blow that did most of the damage. With the score tied 1-1, in the bottom of the fourth, Munro walked three batters and Barnes stepped up and cleaned the bases with a two-run triple to right centre-field.

Victoria's other run came in the third frame when Ron Frumerie opened with a single, stole second, moved to third on an infield out and came home on a wild pitch. Rick Blake and Emery accounted for the other Victoria hits.

In the three games, Victoria pitchers allowed only two runs and seven hits. Emery yielded two hits and one run while Gary Lawrence gave up one run and five hits in Victoria's 2-1 victory over Inter-Community in the semi-finals.

RECEIVE TROPHY

The Island club was presented with the Coca-Cola Bottler Trophy at the conclusion of the game. Roger Emery is manager of the club and Ralph Cosier is the coach.

Members of the Victoria line-up last night were Larry McPherson, second base; Lawrence, shortstop; Dave Black, third base; Blake, first base; Ed Castner, centre field; Lynn Mather, right field; Barnes, left field; Frumerie, catcher and Emery, pitcher. Other players who made the trip were Frank Chambers, Bun Taylor, Daryl Lorimer, Jack May, Jerry Coldwell and Ed Pottinger.

Dodgers Win Seventh in Row; Redlegs Topple Pittsburgh

Brooklyn Dodgers may have resented it at the time but the fact remains that they started to look like the National League champions they are just after manager Walter Alston gave them a dressing-down for lack-lustre play.

Yesterday the Dodgers made it seven in a row to sneak within four and a half games of the idle Milwaukee Braves by trimming Chicago Cubs, 8-3.

And Cincinnati's second-place Redlegs also gained a half game as they scored five times in the ninth to topple Pittsburgh Pirates, 8-3.

But it was different in the American League, where the New York Yankees rolled on toward a seventh pennant in eight seasons by extending their lead to nine and a half games with a 14-3 rout of the Kansas City Athletics.

Unexpectedly giving the Yanks a hand were Baltimore Orioles, who toppled Cleveland Indians, 8-6. It was only the ninth time in 59 games that the Orioles have been able to beat the Indians and only the second time they have ever won in Cleveland.

Sal Maglie struck out seven in a steady seven-hitter for the Dodgers while Sandy Amaros with two-run homers. Snider's blast was his 25th, tying him with Ted Kluszewski for the National League lead.

Rookie Frank Robinson connected for his 24th home run with two mates aboard to highlight Cincinnati's five-run ninth inning. Shortstop Roy McMillan did even more damage, driving in four runs during the game with three singles.

Micky Mantle was homeless again but big Bill Skowron took up any slack in the Yankee offence by driving in seven runs with his 12th and 13th home runs and two singles.

Ex-Dodger Billy Loes was the Baltimore hero, striking out two Indians with the bases loaded in the ninth inning to preserve the 8-6 lead the Orioles had taken mainly through a six-run fifth inning.

At Detroit, Paul Foytack struck out 15 Senators but the Washington club eked out a 6-5 decision over the Tigers with three-run rallies in the second and eighth innings.

Chicago's slipping White Sox were clobbered, 13-1, by Boston Red Sox and are now hopelessly out of contention, 16½ games out of the lead. It was Chicago's 17th setback in the last 20 games.

Brentwood Retains Title

Brentwood midget girls became the fourth Colwood and District Softball League team to win a British Columbia championship this season when they defeated View Royal, 11-3, Friday night in the second game of a best-of-three final.

The Brentwood team, which won the provincial title for the fifth successive year, scored an 8-6 triumph in the opening game. Brentwood juvenile girls won their third straight B.C. title Thursday night and Cordova Bay midget and bantam boys' teams claimed provincial championships earlier this month.

Los Angeles Angels powered their way to an 8-6 victory over Portland Beavers yesterday to increase their Pacific Coast League lead to four games as Hollywood Stars gave them a hand by blanking Seattle Rainiers 6-0.

Five home runs, one of them the 44th for Steve Bilko, sank the Beavers. Bolger hit two over the fence and Speake and Wade each hit one out of the park.

Rainiers were stopped cold by the four-hit pitching of Luis Arroya while the Stars pounded Don Fracchia and Lloyd Dickey for 12 hits.

Vancouver's trailing Mounties lost the deciding game of a five-game series when Sacramento Solons squeezed out a 4-2 win.

Slo-Mo IV 'Unretired'

SEATTLE (AP) — Stan Sayres "unretired" the world's fastest hydroplane Saturday. The former automobile dealer announced he is putting the Slo-mo-shun IV back in the water as an entry in the $25,000 Seafair Trophy Race Aug. 4.

Sayres, who announced in 1955 he was retiring from hydroplane racing, said Joe Taggart, long-time driver of the IV, will pilot it again this year.

Sayres said the decision had been withheld for a number of reasons, most important of which was the possibility of its sale. The sale did not go through.

Race preparations have been maintained, he said, because they would not "injure or interfere with the possibility of its sale."

O'Dell Wins Main Event —His First This Season

Digger O'Dell, leading driver at Western Speedway two years ago, won his first main event of the season Saturday night in a thrill-packed stock car meet at the Millstream road track before 1,800 fans.

However, a protest was registered over O'Dell's victory. Several drivers claimed O'Dell passed two cars before coming into line while the caution flag was being displayed. All drivers must hold their positions when the caution flag is out.

CARS LOCKED

One of the highlights of the 25-lap feature was an accident involving Lamont Brooks and Mikes Newton. Brooks, last week's main event winner, locked with Newton's machine for two laps before the stockers came free.

New Quarterback Promising In Lions' Inter-Squad Game

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lanky Tom Teresa, 180-pound quarterback from San Jose, Calif., State took one quarter to warm up and then led his White squad to a 35-28 victory over the Orange team in a B.C. Lions intra-squad football game here Saturday.

FOR CANCER FUND

The summer-time crowd of 15,203 paid more than $20,000 into the B.C. Cancer fund to watch the Western Interprovincial Football Union team's first home appearance in flood-lit Empire Stadium.

Teresa allowed his Orange opponents, led by Arnie Galiffa, a 14-0 lead in the first quarter, and a 20-13 margin at halftime.

Going into the fourth quarter, the score was 27-20 for the Whites.

The Californian proved the star of the game, acting often as his own best ground-gainer. However, his long passes seldom found the mark.

Play was only for a pre-season game but the passing and receiving on both sides were weak and defensive play at times was off.

Ron Clinkscale opened the scoring for the Orange on the first down. He took a hand-off on his own 11-yard line and ran all the way down the right side of the field for a touchdown. Left fullback Al Pollard converted.

Carl Mayes, right fullback from Texas University, made it 13-0 when he bucked over centre after Clinkscale had taken a fingertip pass from Galiffa on the five-yard line. Pollard again converted.

FIRST ON PASS

The White squad scored its first touchdown early in the second quarter on Teresa's pass from the 24-yard line. Left halfback Ed Verebb grabbed it on the two-yard line and tripped over. Teresa's convert failed.

Right fullback Byron Bailey bucked through centre early in the second quarter from the four-yard line and Teresa converted to make it 14-13.

The White squad went ahead when Teresa's pass from the 40-yard line to Ronnie Loudd, negro end from UCLA, caught him on the three-yard line and he twisted over. Teresa converted.

Early in the third quarter Teresa passed to Loudd on the two-yard line and Bailey went over centre on the next play. The convert by Teresa was good.

The Orange squad came back to make the score 27-20, after 11 minutes of play when substitute quarterback Don Gottlob hurled a 25-yard pass from the 50-yard line to end Edwards who was in the clear. Pollard's convert attempt was wide.

ANOTHER FOR VEREB

With Ted Duncan quarterbacking the Whites, Vereb went over from the three-yard line early in the fourth quarter after a long series of ground advances. Teresa converted.

Galiffa's 30-yard pass to end Vic Chapman was good to the three-yard line and he toppled over to make the score 34-27. Pollard converted.

At 10 minutes of the fourth quarter Chapman's kick was caught by Cal Murphy behind the White goal line and Edwards made the tackle for the rouge. The White squad got back shortly afterward when Duncan kicked across the Orange goal line to Pete Van Harton and John Lewis tackled him for the final point of the game.

Late Rush To Qualify Brings 24 Derby Fish

A last-minute rush to qualify for the fish-offs and improved fishing in Saanich Inlet resulted in 24 salmon being weighed in for the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers Association ladder derby yesterday.

The fish ranged in weight from 12.09 pounuds to seven ounces and when the unofficial list was compiled last night, three anglers were still on the ladder with nine-ounce grilse. However, with one more day left, today's fishing should knock quite a few off the ladder.

However, having entered a fish, they will be eligible for the Duffers' Derby, which will be held two weeks from today. The main fishoff will be held the following Sunday.

City Archers Take Titles At Vancouver

Bill Jones, Bill Carnes and Frank Jones won a total of five titles in the Pacific Northwest archery tournament at Vancouver earlier this week and gave the Victoria Bowmen Club the highest standing of any Canadian club entered in the tournament.

Competing against archers from Western Canada and the Pacific Northwest, 12-year-old Bill Jones won two events in the intermediate class. Frank Jones won two events and Bill Carnes took one title in open men's shooting.

Young Bill led in field-course shooting and also set a new PNW record in the 120-yard Clout shoot with a score of 252x324. He was also second in the target shoot.

Carnes won first place in the triple American shot while Frank Jones took top honors in the 100-yard Wand shoot and in the field-course event.

TACKLE BOX

PICKING UP: Fishing has picked up in Saanich Inlet after a few slow days, according to reports received last night from boathouses.

"It was very good this afternoon," was the word from Hall's Boathouse at Goldstream. Springs to 10 pounds and a good number of coho make up the average catch. Anglers are using anything from eight ounces of weight to planers and Strip-Teasers and Mac's Squid plugs have been the best lures, in that order. Best fishing area is in the triangle formed by Goldstream Island, Chesterfield Rock and Misery Bay.

"It's bucked up considerably the last two days," was the word from Brentwood boathouses. Small springs and a few coho are the main offering but a 17-pounder taken by K. G. Wiper yesterday morning and a 14-pounder for Mrs. C. J. Rose Friday evening gave hope that there may be some bigger salmon about.

Fishing has been good along the Bamberton side, from McCurdy Point to Mill Bay, and also between Whittaker's Point, Senanus Island and Bamberton. Here, too, Strip-Teasers and Mac's Squid plugs have been accounting for most of the catches.

Things have slowed a bit at Deep Cove, where fishing was good in mid-week but at least eight coho were brought in to Holder's Boathouse yesterday.

* * *

THEY GOT PROOF: Jim Nott, Doug Wilson and Bill Huggins are three anglers convinced that Saanich Inlet can provide a lot of fishing action. Out yesterday with Tom Moss of Gilbert's Landing doing the guiding, the trio boated 17 salmon ranging between nine pounds and two and a half pounds.

Some were coho and some were springs and they didn't show much preference between Tom Mack and abalone spoons or Strip-Teasers. They were caught at various depths, the trio using from a pound to five pounds of weight.

* * *

AT COWICHAN BAY: Fishing is good enough at Cowichan Bay to be well worth a try. Word from Ordano's Boathouse and Davenport's Marina yesterday was that the first of the annual runs of spring salmon was certainly in and that fishing is good.

Up until now, it has been almost as good in the evenings as in the mornings. Tides haven't been the best for fishing but the guess is that fishing will improve steadily and be at its best within another week. At least two in the 30-pound class have been taken and there are increasing numbers being brought in over the 15-pound mark.

Plugs, particularly the Wallace Highliner, are a good bet. And so is the Strip-Teaser. A good thing to remember is that best results are now being obtained by those who fish deeper than used to be the case in Cowichan Bay. Twelve ounces of weight is almost a minimum for most of the regulars.

* * *

LADDER FILLING UP: As of yesterday afternoon, 21 rungs had been filled in the annual spring salmon ladder derby staged by the Cowichan Bay Salmon Club.

Six qualifying weeks will decide the 50 anglers who will take part in the fish-off on Sunday, Sept. 2. Top salmon each week wins one of the permanent trophies being given away by five Cowichan Bay boathouses and Peck's Store. First prize in the fish-off is choice of $200 in cash or a Scott-Atwater outboard valued at $280. Second, third and fourth prizes are complete salmon-fishing outfits. Club membership ($1.50) and a derby entry ticket ($1) are required. Entrants may weigh in more than one fish if they catch anything larger than their first entry.

Leader at the moment is Dick James of Victoria, who weighed in a 31½-pounder last week. As far as is known, his bronze-button winner is the largest of the season to date. He seems almost certain of winning the trophy for the second weekly competition.

Winner of the first weekly trophy was Joe Hancock of Lake Cowichan, who holds third rung on the ladder with a 28-pound, 14-ounce spring.

Behind James, other rung-holders are: Hugh Gibson, Duncan, 30-2; Hancock, Carl Gibson, Victoria, 28; R. J. LaRiviere, Duncan, 23-12; Roy Herd, Deerholme, 21-01; Gladys Merrick, Cowichan Bay, 20-8; Bob McClurg, Cobble Hill, 19-14; Keith Mayhew, Duncan, 18-14; J. E. Burdes, Duncan, 18; Ror Campbell, Duncan, 17-14; J. R. Phillips, Deerholme, 17; P. Campbell, Duncan, 16-8; Harry Wadsworth, Cowichan Bay, 15-8; Don Taylor, Duncan, 15-4; Paul Phillips, Deerholme, 12-6; J. Weynen, Duncan, 11; Mrs. Paul Jonsen, Victoria, 8-14; Paul Jonsen, Victoria, 8-10; J. Meers, Duncan, 7-15; O. Wigan, Cowichan Bay, 7-6.

* * *

REELING IN: Each trip heightens the impression that the best fishing on Vancouver Island is the stretch of water between Clayton's Fishing Camp at Nanoose and Campbell River . . . the only drawback is rough water which can keep one ashore all day, but when it's calm, it isn't often one goes fishless . . . most popular lure in the area is the Tom Mack spoon, usually the No. 4½ and almost invariably used with a flasher . . . and when it comes to flashers, the personal preference is the Roi Smith when it's found necessary to use one . . . J. E. Blackmore was the winner of the Nanaimo Eagles' salmon derby. His 18-pounder was the largest salmon taken by the 140 contestants . . . a wild rumor has reached the office that Andy Anderson and partner caught eight salmon, either yesterday or Friday . . . if entries in the Colonist's King Fisherman Contest keep coming in as fast as they have of late, this office is going to need a bookkeeper. The total is now 1,090 and jumping up.

On Top Rung

Dick James, president of the Royal Canadian Navy Anglers Association, is currently holding down the top rung in the annual spring salmon ladder derby held by the Cowichan Bay Salmon Club. Dick is shown above with the 31½-pounder he boated Thursday evening. It's biggest registered fish of season at Cowichan Bay and was caught on a Strip-Teaser fished with a flasher.

Americans To Play Nationals In Island Little League Final

By JIM TANG

All-star clubs from the American and National Little Leagues will meet at Little League park today for the Vancouver Island title and the right to play in the district playdowns at Vancouver early next month. Game time will be approximately 3.15, following an opening game between the defeated semi-finalists in yesterday's Island playdowns.

Americans were almost upset by the Esquimalt-Victoria West All-Stars in the first game, being forced to go two extra innings before getting by, 2-1, on an unearned eighth-inning run.

Nationals had an easier time of it against Duncan All-Stars, breaking the game wide open with eight runs in the second inning and going on to win by 13-4.

TOUGH TO BEAT

As scores suggest, the first game was the better. John Yanoski, an 82-pound bundle of poise, held the Americans well in check and would have been the winner with a bit more support from his teammates.

Little John, unworried by pressure, didn't give up an earned run. A bunt single, two passed balls and an error cost him a first-inning run. Then he shut the door until the eighth, when Neil Worboys opened with a single, went to second on a wild pitch, to third as the catcher overthrew the bag in a desperate try, and scored when the centrefielder overthrew third base in another try for Worboys.

It was a real toughie for John, who gave up seven hits, struck out nine and walked only one. Esquimalt managed a run in the third, left seven on the bags in the last three innings and failed to score after loading the bags with none out in the sixth.

Gerry Moore, who relieved Worboys in the sixth, struck out the side in the sixth with the bags loaded and picked up the win. Gordon Dovey, shortstop for the winners, had three singles in three trips.

Duncan was leading, 1-0, and had two out and none on in the second inning when trouble started, and didn't end until eight runners were in.

A base on balls, two hit batsmen, two errors, three singles and a double did the damage. Only one run was in when the two boots set up the big inning.

Shortstop Phil Williams also swung a potent bat for the winners, batting in three runs with a two-run double in the second and a lead-off home run in the fourth.

Farmers Drop Pair to Bells

Farmer Construction dropped into fifth place in the Northwestern International Baseball League yesterday when it suffered a double defeat at the hands of the fourth-place Bellingham club at Royal Athletic park.

The visitors battered right-hander Bill Prior for 14 hits in carving out a 5-0 victory in the afternoon game, then choked off a Victoria rally in the bottom of the ninth to gain a 7-3 decision in the nightcap.

Farmers were held to only four hits by Darrel Burke in the opener and advanced only one runner as far as third base.

LATE RALLY

Bellingham held a 9-3 lead going into the bottom of the ninth inning in the second game. Farmers pushed across four runs and tie tying runs were left stranded when pinch-hitter Doug Patterson smashed a drive that was caught in right field.

Timbermen Trounce Pils, 17-7, To Clinch Second League Title

Nanaimo Timbermen last night won the Inter-City Lacrosse League championship for the second year in a row by trouncing the second-place Vancouver Pilseners, 17-7, before a crowd of close to 2,100 fans at Nanaimo.

	GP	W	L	T	GF	GA	Pts
Nanaimo	25	20	3	0	386	261	40
Vancouver	24	13	10	1	320	266	27
VICTORIA	24	11	11	1	280	267	23
Westminster	25	3	22	0	196	332	6

Last night's score: Vancouver 7 at Nanaimo 17.
Next game: Tuesday, VICTORIA at Vancouver.

All that is left to decide now is whether the Pilseners or Victoria Shamrocks finish as runners-up. Timbermen are 13 points ahead of Pils, who have only a possible 12 points from six remaining games.

TWO POINTS AHEAD

However, Pilseners are only two points ahead of the Rocks and while the second and third teams meet in the playoff semi-final, second place is worth the advantage of an extra home game if the best-of-five series goes the limit.

Rocks could tie on Tuesday night when they play Pils in Vancouver and the position will probably be decided in the three games the two clubs have left with each other.

BETTER SCHEDULE

Pils have slightly the better of the schedule. Two of the games against Victoria are in Vancouver while they have to meet the Timbermen only once more and get two cracks at the helpless New Westminster Salmonbellies.

Rocks have to meet Timbermen twice, get only one shot at the league trailers.

Last night, Timbermen played spottily in the first half although they managed to take an 8-5 lead. They improved their advantage to 12-7 at the end of the third quarter, then came up with a top-form final 15 minutes to score five more times while holding the weakened Pils scoreless.

Stars for the winners were defensemen Bob Raffle and coach Harry Wipper. Raffle was sound both ways as he scored twice and passed for three goals while Wipper came up with what was probably his best game of the season.

Andrews Holds Lead To Win Rifle Trophy

George Andrews of the Navy, firing 198 of a possible 210, won aggregate honors in the Vancouver Island Rifle Association's shoot for the Albert Ashe Shield at Heals Range yesterday afternoon.

Andrews, who led the first stage of shooting a week ago yesterday with 103x105, recorded 95 in the second stage yesterday and wound up with a comfortable margin over Frank Drysdale, who was second with 98 and 93 for an aggregate of 191. Ernie Morse was third with 191 on 94 and 97.

Shotgun Experts Aim At B.C. Skeet Titles

Earl Caldwell and Frank Opsal, champion Ted Bailey, who lost out the Vancouver target blasters who will represent Canada in the Olympic Games at Melbourne in November, will lead a starry array of shotgun experts into the British Columbia skeet championships at Victoria Gun Club next weekend.

Although Opsal and Caldwell won their Olympic berths when they tied for fist place in the Canadian trap-shooting championships, they have also earned considerable fame by their prowess on the skeet ranges and will be hard to head off in the race for the all-gauge title.

TO DEFEND TITLE

Opsal will be defending the all-gauge crown he won for the second time last year against the challenges of the cream of B.C., Washington and Oregon gunners.

Heading a strong Victoria contingent will be former provincial champion Ted Bailey, who lost out to Opsal by one bird in the all-gauge event last year and also missed by one bird as New Westminster's Frank Cooper won the high over-all crown.

Other Victorians who are expected to be among the top finishers are Dib Noble, Jr., who was picked for the B.C. all-stars, Henry Pottinger, Bill Pearsall and Hugh Newman.

STARTS SATURDAY

Cooper will be back to defend the over-all and 410-gauge titles and Len Parker of Vancouver will toe the firing line in defence of his 20-gauge championship.

The two-day shoot will start Saturday and firing will commence at 9 a.m. each day.

There will be four events in which competition will be held in A, B, C and D classes and a five-man team match.

Re-Match of Tag Bout To Feature Mat Card

Bonnie Watson and Penny Banner, billed as the world's tag team champions, will meet June Byers and Lois Johnson at Memorial arena Monday night in a rematch of Thursday night's bout that ended in a "no contest" decision.

Wrestling commissioner Doug Fletcher intervened and called the match no contest after the titleholders were declared the winners by referee Dave Pye. All four contestants and the referee ended up outside the ring.

Pat O'Connor defeated The Mighty Ursus in a best-of-three-fall semi-main and Hard-Boiled Haggerty beat Sammy Mannaker. Ivan Kamiroff defeated Byron Czichos in a special bout. O'Connor and Kamiroff will meet in the second main event on Monday's four-bout card. In other matches, Hard-Boiled Haggerty takes on Ken Kenneth and Dave Pye meets Mike Belton at 8.30.

Playoff Starts Tuesday Night

Best-of-three final between UCT and Menzies for the Babe Ruth League baseball playoff championship will get under way at Beacon Hill park Tuesday night at 6.30.

Second game will be played Wednesday night and the third game, if necessary, is slated for Friday night.

One Wicket Falls

MANCHESTER, Eng. (Reuters) — Rain Saturday restricted play to 45 minutes on the third day of the fourth cricket test between England and Australia.

An early-morning storm saturated the pitch and prevented a start being ade until after lunch.

When play became possible, Australia added six runs to their overnight second innings total of 53 for 1, and lost the wicket of Jim Burke. Black thunder clouds rolled up again and the umpires called a halt.

Two more days remain for play. Scores: England 459; Australia 84 and 59 for 2.

Provincial Softball Champions

Climaxing a great season in which they won all but two of 24 games, Cordova Bay midget boys won the provincial championship recently by downing Newton in a best-of-three series on the mainland. The Cordova Bay club, comprised of the same group of boys who took the B.C. bantam title three years ago, won the first and third games of the series. Team members are, left to right, front row: Butch Cleland, Alan Bowditch, Brian Garrett, Jimmy Cunningham, Robert Schmelz, Billy Egeland and Dennis Noonan. Back row: manager Vic Lindal, Jimmy Andrews, Gordie Tregear, Herb Minter and coach Don Garrett. Absent when picture was taken were Bill Hillier, Ritchie Smith, Bill Pedneault and Earl Oldham.—(Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman.)

Mawsons Meet Police In Pony Loop Final

Mawson-Gage, pushing across two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning, defeated Rotary, 2-1, at Carnarvon park yesterday to move into the finals of the Pony League baseball elimination series for the Times Trophy.

Mawsons, first and second-half champions in regular season play, pulled out the victory when Gordon Usher doubled home Ron Roberts from first base and Usher scored on a sacrifice fly by Bob Martin.

ERRORS HELP DOWELLS

Dowells, held to only one hit, took advantage of six errors to gain a 4-2 victory over Morrisons and stretch their Colt League lead to a full game over Pacifics at Windsor park. Tough-luck loser was Bill White, who held the winners hitless after Bruce Simpson opened the game with a single.

Yesterday's results: Incogs defeated Alcos; Oak Bay defeated Cowichan.
Next match: today, Five C's vs. Albions, Beacon Hill park, 2.30.

Incogs gained a six-wicket victory over Alcos and moved into a first-place tie with Cowichan in Victoria and District Cricket Association play yesterday as the up-Island club went down to its second straight defeat.

Five C's, trailing the co-leaders by two points, will have a chance to take over first place today when they meet Albions at Beacon Hill park at 2.30.

Ray Calton led the Incog batsmen with a fine 52 not out as the winners passed Alcos' total of 112 runs with a loss of only four wickets. Mal Shanks was the outstanding Incog bowler, taking five wickets for 25 runs.

Oak Bay gained a three-wicket victory over Cowichan at Duncan and the defending champion Bays, who moved into a fourth-place tie with Albions, were again led by the outstanding bowling of Jack Sparks, who took seven wickets for 28 runs.

ACE AT CEDAR HILL

Ike Braun scored a hole-in-one on the 120-yard ninth hole at Cedar Hill Golf Club this week. He was stroking against I. Young, a visitor from Saskatoon, who scored a birdie on the same hole.

Lyons Takes Honors In Tri-Service Meet

Flt.-Lt. Norm Lyons of the RCAF piled up 36 points to win individual aggregate honors in the second annual British Columbia Tri-Service track and field championships held yesterday at Macdonald park in conjunction with the Victoria Highland Games.

Lyons, winning the high jump and hop, step and jump events and placing second in the broad jump and mile run, wound up with a six-point lead over Sgt. Bill Rostek of the Army, last year's aggregate champion. Rostek again won the sprint events.

Despite Lyons' outstanding performance, the Air Force team wound up in last place with 122 points. Army athletes, scoring heavily in the track events, retained their team championship by finishing with 144 points for a two-point edge over the Navy athletes.

Two records were set in the meet that attracted more than 40 competitors serving in the permanent forces. Lieut. John Rutherford set a new mark in the half-mile event with a time of two minutes, three seconds, and the Army's 440-yard relay team established a new mark of 46.8 seconds.

Complete tri-service meet results:

100 yards—1—Sgt. Bill Rostek, Army; 2—AB Gary Anderson, Navy; 3—LAC A. Fraser, Navy. Time: 10.3.

Hot-Rodders Ruin Field

CHEMAINUS (BUP)—Hot-rodders at Chemainus ruined the Little League baseball park there Friday night, nullifying hours of hard work by volunteers to get the park into playing shape.

The field was just becoming solid when the youths used it for a race track. Speeding, skidding cars tore ruts six to eight inches deep in both the infield and outfield.

The Car Corner

Safety Gadgets Not Enough

By J. T. Jones

Safety belts, padded dashboards, safety glass and interlocking doors of cars are fine sound devices for saving life and limb, but they don't make a safe car.

The primary safety features are those that keep a car out of [illegible] accidents. The [illegible] gets may be taken as an indirect reflection on some modern cars.

I notice the manufacturers have been quietly dropping the subject of safety devices lately, as though of course they still supply them and they're still worth having.

Good engineering balances power against speed of the car and the ability of the chassis to deal with it. There are perhaps five cars on the road in this area which could [illegible] but the rest of them is a special [illegible]

A car that can turn [illegible] out skidding or rolling over brake hard without steering sideways and stop quickly enough to correct skids when they do happen is a reasonably safe car. The higher the speeds at which these can do these things, the more powered engine of a [illegible]

'A Medical Question'

Debate Rages Over Cross-Bearer

'Case for Psychiatrist'

Carrying a seven-foot mahogany cross 100 miles across the island of Cuba to the shrine of the Virgin of Cobre is the ordeal Irma Izquierdo has undertaken in fulfillment of a vow. (UNA)

HAVANA (UNA)—A 24-year-old farm girl with green eyes and long black hair has become Cuba's most controversial figure.

She is Irma Izquierdo, who has set out to walk 100 miles from her home town of Cuevas de Melena near Havana to the most holy shrine of the Virgin Mary of Cobre.

Some of the people who have seen the cross, maintain that during Easter she had a vision of Christ and received a message from Him.

"He told me," she says, "go to the shrine of the Virgin of Cobre on foot carrying a cross for as long as you can. Then your prayers will be answered."

Skeptics call the message said Irma a series of originals appeared on her hands. The marks are depicted as red wounds INRI on her thighs and scars of nails and stigmata on back, arms and feet.

Another explanation would run through the scars that the girl was the bearer of some sort.

Several [illegible] to see her that traffic was blocked for hours.

Women [illegible] touched the purple [illegible] of Matthew's passion robe and more than 2,000 persons watched her pass.

At her present rate of about eight miles a day, Irma hopes to reach the Cobre on the day of September. Asked what she expects to do there she replied: "I only pray. Then I expect something to happen."

Although Irma always lived in [illegible] she is in her bondage she never [illegible] past the point to which she has vowed.

Often when she reaches a village without a hotel, however, she uses the car to return westward to a town with the necessary amenities for passing the night. The next day she motors to the point where she left off the night before.

As pictures and stories about Irma crowded Cuba's papers and magazines the Roman Catholic church, through Msgr. Evelio Vaca, secretary of Manuel [illegible] Archbishop of Havana, stepped in and said Msgr. de Vaca:

Skeptics [illegible] he told sheep [illegible] be confused with pseudo-stigmata [illegible] of [illegible] cases produced by such phenomena as [illegible] usual explanation, [illegible] covering [illegible] or [illegible] hysteria.

The case of Irma Izquierdo, said the distinguished churchman is "a medical question, not theologic."

A noted Cuban psychiatrist, Dr. Diego [illegible] M. [illegible] says it is a case of [illegible] and [illegible] psychosis.

[illegible] and [illegible] is trying to avoid [illegible] and [illegible] on the long road to the shrine of the Virgin of Cobre.

Spring Salmon Run Booms Contest Roster

More Than 1,000 Fish Weighed In So Far

Into the deep-freeze go salmon caught off Bates Beach by Angus Bates, owner of the Bates Beach Resort, under the freezer for its guests' use. Bates Beach has been one of the Gulf fishing spots in Vancouver Island this year. During June and July there was excellent fishing for spring salmon averaging out at about 15 pounds and it is mostly over fishing with the peak for August the first of September.

Start of the annual spring salmon run in Cowichan bay and excellent fishing, mainly for coho in the area stretching between Comox bay and Campbell River has resulted in a flood of entries to The Daily Colonist's King Fishermen contest from sea and fishing resorts.

Every mail is bringing additional entries and a tabulation made yesterday afternoon showed that 1,002 salmon have been entered, in addition to 83 trout.

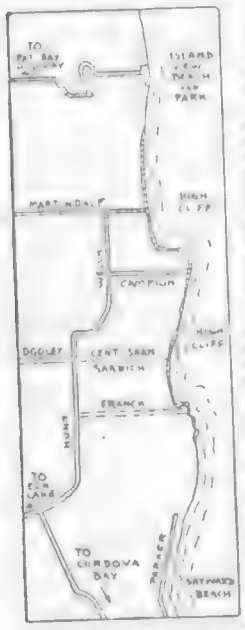
Much Still To Be Done

Beaches Access Getting Easier

This is the first of a series of articles by The Daily Colonist's city hall reporter on public access to beaches in the Greater Victoria area.

BY R. O. MARRION

In 1951 and again in 1953, The Daily Colonist weighed Greater Victoria's public accesses to miles of beautiful shoreline and found them wanting—not only lacking in proper numbers, but often obscure, camouflaged or even blocked.



In 1951 the situation was regarded as bad; in 1953, little better.

But the results of a third survey, just completed, are more encouraging.

Much is left today to be desired, but progress has been made in the case of [illegible] was found at least a [illegible] Legislature improved [illegible] where a few yards on [illegible] were [illegible] of encroachment [illegible] good reasons generally were discovered.

PUBLIC RIGHTS

In this brief summary of [illegible] the interest and time [illegible] of Municipal [illegible] we would not shed the people [illegible] Victoria, [illegible] of which at least [illegible] tent, [illegible] and which to some extent [illegible] have never had.

To start with the Land Registry Act requires [illegible] subdivided [illegible] subdivisions fronting on the sea that

"Where the land subdivided borders on the shore of any navigable waters, access shall be given by sufficient public highways (to such navigable waters at distances not greater than 10 chains (220 yards) between centre lines or in district municipalities or unorganized districts where the parcels into which the land is subdivided exceed one acre, at distances not greater than 20 chains (440 yards) between centre lines."

[illegible] of the parcels in Saanich was [illegible] was [illegible] visited. But the road [illegible] at the [illegible] of the last survey that I made.

ENFORCED NOW

The access law, he said is [illegible] enforced in new subdivisions but many areas were established before the beach act [illegible] was passed by the provincial legislature in 1921.

The next access [illegible] the previous two began at Island View Beach where Tourist [illegible] road runs right to the shore. A good beach for family fun with [illegible] bathing, changing facilities and a [illegible] provided and [illegible].

The next "access," travelling south, is Martindale road. In the previous surveys reporters found cause for complaint in the fact that Martindale ended in somebody's farm rather than running right to the sea as shown on maps.

This year there was no obstruction, the road allowance was open and the grass on it was even [illegible]. About 150 feet [illegible] descent below the end of the road allowance the waves lapped an attractive beach.

CLIFF'S FAULT

The beach can be reached by walking south from Island View [illegible] a steep [illegible] sandy and [illegible] and [illegible] is not the drawback.

Sand and pebbles [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] down to [illegible] and there [illegible] with [illegible] grasping their [illegible] [illegible] of [illegible] wait at the cliff top to take the plunge.

The picnicker who chooses this beach must bear in mind that he may be the one who is going to get 10 tons of clay and gravel down the back of his shirt or lose cliff climbing Junior under a landslide.

Much the same situation exists at the foot of the next access road, Campion, indeed all the way south to the next public stretch of sand, Saayward beach.

RIGHT TO BRINK

The previous owner [illegible] from [illegible] the [illegible] was of a private home. It still appears to fill it isn't obstructed. Anyone who wants to can drive right up to the edge of the high cliff and look in peril at the sandy beach below.

To one side, a steep path, only inches wide in places, winds down through brush and across an open shoulder of the cliff, but it is suitable only for the agile and reckless. A little to the north, a private road descends a more gradual slope to a cottage on Cowichan head.

Unless this road is someday expropriated for public use, to meet the demands of a much bigger population, there seems little chance that this stretch of beach will ever be much used.

The next access road shown on maps is Franck, and although the road allowance is there the road isn't. It hasn't been developed yet.

HIKING ONLY WAY

As a result there is no way for the public to get to the beach for about [illegible] miles of shoreline south of Campion except by hiking northward along the shore from Saayward, the next accessible beach.

The next article in this series will describe the access situation at Sayward beach and southward.

'John MacPavelich' Sweeps Field In Highland Games Weight Events

BY DAVID FRANCIS

A Yugoslav-born Vancouver man, who jokingly said his name was "John MacPavelich," swept the weight events at yesterday's Highland games in Macdonald Park, and what's more broke a Canadian shot-put record.

He put the 16-pound shot 52 feet, one inch, to break his own record established last week of 51 feet, nine inches.

Mr. Pavelich also heaved that small telephone pole, the 100-pound caber, 43 feet, five inches, to win the event and further shake proud Scots men.

Worker Saved From Sure Death By Hard Helmet

CAMPBELL RIVER — A construction worker's hard hat saved him from almost certain death Friday when he was struck by a large chunk of rock falling from a height of 70 feet.

Fred Wood, 36, married employee of Tuxton Walk and Mason on the Rip River [illegible] Ladore power house project, suffered a [illegible] fracture and severe [illegible] injuries but his hard hat took the brunt of the blow.

There will be at least 40 visiting aircraft from Canada and United States on hand for the event, and RCAF aircraft from Comox will stage a flypast.

RCAF band will be in attendance for the ceremonies, scheduled to start at 2 p.m.

The 3,800-foot gravel surface airstrip, cut out of heavy brush near French Creek, is unique in that it was constructed by the Rotary Club here as a community project, and much of the work was done by club members on a voluntary basis.

Car Theft Charged

NANAIMO — Two Vancouver youths who were captured at gunpoint by Duncan detachment RCMP Friday were charged with stealing a late-model car at Nanaimo yesterday.

One youth, 18-year-old Neil McLean, Vancouver, pleaded guilty to stealing the vehicle and was remanded in custody to await a probation officer's report. The other, a 17-year-old from Vancouver, did not enter a plea and was also remanded. Their cases will be heard Thursday by Magistrate Lionel Beevor Potts.

Both had the doubtful honor of being the last [illegible] to appear in Nanaimo's old courtroom. The court will be held in the new $100,000 building Monday.

RCMP detachment received permission from Ottawa yesterday to move it to new headquarters in the building.

COURTENAY—Auto workers in five city garages have voted by an 80 per cent margin to strike for a five-cent an hour wage boost plus one additional statutory holiday annually with pay. No deadline has been set for the strike.

The extra five cents an hour would bring pay here to $1.85 an hour the same as the district of Port Alberni.

COURTENAY — Fishing prizes totalling $735 are being offered by the Rotary Club this year for its annual salmon derby Aug. 10 and 26. Most prize is a 5-mm boat. A 5-000 engine also will be given away.

Fire Leads to Crash

NANAIMO — When a truck caught fire, driver Harry Smith stopped the vehicle to extinguish the blaze. While he was doing this, two cars smashed into the Island Freight truck and a man was taken to hospital with a fractured leg and facial lacerations.

Three others also received treatment at Nanaimo Hospital but were allowed to go home.

The man detained was David Morgan, [illegible] of the cars who collided with the truck were George Howard, 424 Wesley street and Herbert Veasey, Wellington. Veasey's vehicle was completely demolished.

CUMBERLAND — A recent meeting of representatives from a number of Cumberland organizations decided to ask the Kinsmen Club to hold a giant bingo to raise money for the proposed new ambulance for use in the districts of Minto, Royston, Bevan and Union Bay.

'War' Slashes Spud Prices

Spud prices dropped faster than Harry Adams, owner of the Haultain-Belmont corner Shop Easy market, could make poster changes. Locked in a cost-tumbling potato war with the Farmers Market across the street, Harry met competition by slashing prices hourly from 1 p.m. from Victoria's prevailing 75 cents per 10 pounds to [illegible] cents late last night. [illegible] stores reported "brisk business." (Colonist photo by Jim Hughes.)

Meanwhile the first effort to swim Georgia strait between Campbell River and Powell River will be made by a husky Irish-born rock driller, Michael Geoghegan today.

Loads of Generosity Create New Beach

A Saanich neighborhood celebrated last night recovering that it had created a $1,000 beach for $20.

At the new beach on the Gorge at the foot of Rockwell, near Craigflower bridge, youngsters splashed through the water for small prizes and their parents, whose united efforts built the beach, looked on happily.

The creation of the beach started as soon as it was known that Gorge waters had become free enough of pollution to bathe in.

Children began wading in the water at the foot of Rockwell and came home with their feet all slashed up," Roy Pistell a leader in the beach project said.

Mr. and Mrs. Pistell went down to the shore and started to pick up pieces of broken glass. One by one or two by two neighbors joined them and soon a dozen were picking up glass.

Then the idea of building a real beach was born. Evans Coleman and Johnson, McIntyre & Harding Gravel Co. and Butler Bros. gave the neighborhood 60 yards of gravel and sand. Some hauling costs had to be met, as Rockwell and other neighborhood residents chipped in $30 in $1 contributions, of which only $20 was spent.

Days shovelled the sand and gravel and mothers waded around in the Gorge at low tide pushing out weeds.

Stewart & Hudson donated lumber for a fence. The Sooke Lake Lumber [illegible] gave [illegible] for floats that were [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] of A & P [illegible] and organizations.

B.C. Forest Products and the B.C. Electric [illegible] gave paint for [illegible]. The swimming [illegible] Island Hand Dairies [illegible] contributed paint, a number of [illegible] donated their services and garages and fire shops gave inner tubes.

"The Saanich police gave every cooperation," Mr. Pistell said, "and the provincial highway department gave us a crosswalk, when only parks and schools normally get crosswalks."

Signs were provided by Vickery, Masters & Howorth and Todd Signs.

Even the ingredients of a successful celebration, hot dogs, soft drinks, candies and a hydrogen-filled balloon, were donated, by McGavin Bakeries, Goodwill Bottling, Lorne Lewis, the Craigflower bridge merchants, and Yarrows.

Gulf Islanders Vote In Favor of Hospital

Special to the Colonist

GANGES — Gulf islands property owners voted 662-287 yesterday in favor of borrowing $48,800 to build and equip a new hospital at Ganges to replace the Lady Minto Gulf Island Hospital.

Election officials said the by-law got well over the two-thirds majority needed to pass.

Total cost of the hospital will be $272,495. Provincial and federal governments will make up the balance.

A similar vote was defeated [illegible] by a narrow margin.

The 21-bed hospital will be a one-storey concrete structure and is to have modern facilities and surgical equipment.

'Whistle Punk' Phrase Intrigues Sir Herbert

Art Talks Here To Appear in Book

By TONY EMERY

I was five minutes late at the airport to meet him but he was reading a book with quiet patience. Sir Herbert Read, one of the most influential of English writers, is the least assertive, most self-effacing of men.

His appearance suggests the poet rather than the man of action yet he won the DSO and the Military Cross in the Kaiser's war, and is the head of the famous London publishing house of Routledge & Kegan Paul.

When he was knighted two years ago for his services to art the whole contemporary movement felt honored for he has devoted his life to interpreting the work of modern artists for the benefit of the intelligent reading public.

He is well qualified to expound the mysteries of contemporary art, he has held Chairs in Fine Art at Cambridge and Edinburgh and at Harvard he succeeded Charles Eliot Norton as lecturer. He was a keeper of collections for 11 years at the Victoria and Albert Museum in London, and is the moving spirit behind the Institute of Contemporary Arts in London.

He came to Victoria from the Biennale in Venice where he was the British delegate at this most famous of all international festivals.

Impressed by Beauty

He was most impressed by the beauty of Venice and enjoyed about the prospects in Canada for his youngest son, now about to begin military service. I suggested a cup of cold tea around B.C. to begin with.

What kind of tea? What drink in a veggie camp I used to sing the first verse of that song in my mind. His poet's ear was pleased by the rhythms of the Australian phrase and he repeated it softly to himself.

His talk on British sculpture drew the largest crowd that the art gallery has ever seated.

Clarity of Thought

The clarity of his thought is reflected in the perspicuous beauty of his writing. The tender evocation of his childhood on a Yorkshire farm and the magnificent description of his experiences in the 1914 war, both contained in "Annals of Innocence and Experience" have caused ours to be ranked with Dickens and Stendhal.

His anthology, "The Knapsack" is the best collection of English verse and prose in the language, the essays in "Coat of Many Colours" are packed with perceptive criticism, the delicate fantasy "The Green Child" has captivated all who have read it.

His books on World War II and Sculpture are contemporary art and literature and criticism on the place of the artist in society, on the significance of art in industry, and on the future of government in modern society are all classics in their fields.

Yet what modesty and charm what simplicity and kindness he displays. "That phrase again" he said as we were seeing him off. "Punk whistle was it?"

Whistle punk. I said and watched him as he disappeared in the crowd of businessmen on the Vancouver beat.

and his lecture on the significance of children's art was well attended at the summer school. Those who missed both these events may be consoled by the knowledge that they are soon to be published in book form.

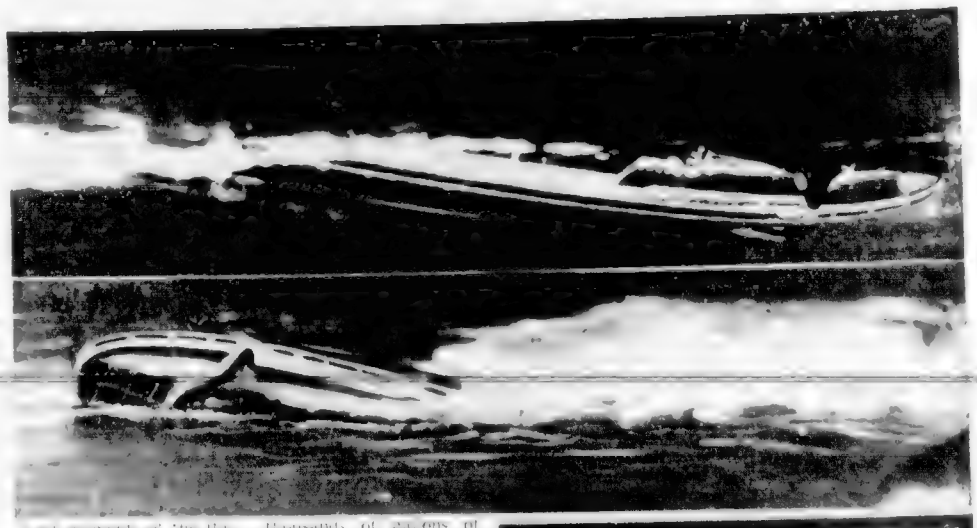
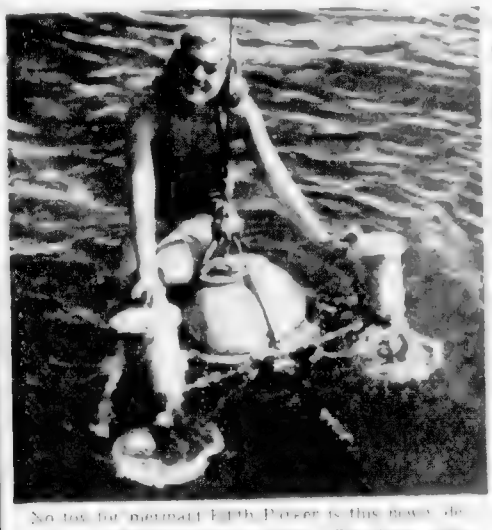
President Eisenhower is getting one of his famous broad grins as he arrives for the dedicating ceremonies for the Dwight D. Eisenhower Interstate Highway in Abilene, Kan. The President is accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower and Kansas Governor Fred Hall. The proposed national network of atomic age highways is the largest public works project in the western hemisphere. —(CPC).

Canadian Navy's Algerine class minesweeper HMCS Cowichan is launched at Victoria Machinery Depot Co. Ltd. shipyard. Cowichan is the first of 12 minesweepers to be built at the yard for the Royal Canadian Navy. Launching was performed by Mrs. Ralph Chatterton, wife of Rear-Admiral Chatterton, Flag Officer Pacific Coast. —(CPC).



The presence of a U.S. film, "The Wild One" is blamed for a riot that put Berlin streets in an uproar last week. Hundreds of youngsters, most of them in leather jackets and helmets and riding motorcycles, sped through the streets. Club-swinging police tried to disperse the gang, defending themselves against hoodlums who threw bottles and stones at police cars. Here's one incident during the fray. A youngster is putting the boot at a cop. —(CPC).



Soviet Army's Fifth Panzer is this newly developed underwater gravity meter. The device was being used to explore the bottom of Lake Erie. It is lowered to the bottom and sends back signals which are arranged in the form of a graph showing the configuration of the bottom. The device, a 15-inch rugged cylinder, weighs 230 pounds and is being used to determine favorable locations to drill for oil and gas. Several companies are investing heavily in the search. —(CPC).

For decades electric power and telephone companies have been frustrated by squirrels and other climbing animals who have an instinct to chew. The animals chew their way through lead-covered wires, short-circuiting entire systems and ruining transformers. Thousands electrocuted themselves, but other thousands kept chewing away, interrupting service and causing lawsuits to be on the job at all hours. Now however a new synthetic cable has been developed. The tremendous strength of the cable human hair, but it's tough and smart. So the lively-tasted squirrel Mr. Squirrel won't be able to chew through the plastic and the lineman will have more regular sleeping hours—(CPC).

CHEVROLET UNIT DELIVERS FRESH FEED

Scott & Peden Ltd., pioneer seed and feed merchants, have recently added a unit to their fleet that is one of the most modern on the continent. Designed for direct delivery of fresh feed in bulk it is a huge truck body, equipped with a conveyor from the power take-off, passing the feed or grain down the farmer's chute. Having a capacity of five to eight tons, depending on the type of feed or grain, it is loaded direct from the mixing bin at the Scott & Peden plant, an additional assurance of freshness to the customer. W. T. Burgess, of the Scott & Peden staff, is readily available to advise the farmer on the best bin construction for this type of delivery. The unit was mounted on a Chevrolet "Series 700" truck purchased through Morrison Chevrolet Oldsmobile Ltd., local Chevrolet dealers. The truck was driven to Los Angeles and there at the factory, the feed delivery unit was installed on the truck.

5 CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to extend my sincere appreciation to the members of the Maitland-Cain Society and the host of friends, many of whom I do not know personally, for the great kindness shown me during my recent bereavement. Ruth I. Maitland

6 IN MEMORIAM

CUPID—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, John Cupid, who passed away July 29, 1955.
Time heals the sorrow,
But not the pain,
Our loss is greater
Than we can explain.
Sadly missed by his loving wife and family.

TV Talk

By ROY PARKETT

—Steve Allen has more top talent lined up to woo television fans away from their regular Ed Sullivan show at 8 tonight. Opera singers Jan Peerce and Rise Stevens are just two of the attractions on Steve's channel 4 show.

Not that Mr. Allen is going highbrow. It is comic opera for Mr. Peerce and Miss Stevens, with a few pot-at-[illegible]ers thrown in for good measure.

James Mason and his whole family will also be on hand with a skit about life in Hollywood and Steve Allen, himself, will display his unusual talents in two numbers.

Playing on channel 11 at the same hour will be the top 11 acts of the famous Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus along with the dean of clowns Emmett Kelly, all guests of Ed Sullivan.

On channel 2, Ed will have a repeat of last week's show featuring film clips of "High Society," the new picture starring Bing Crosby, Frank Sinatra, Grace Kelly and Louis Armstrong.

* * *

The children will probably get a kick out of the King County Soapbox Derby which will be seen on channel 5 at 2.30 today.

If Dad can get near the set there is baseball on channels 11 and 12 at the same hour as Seattle Rainiers and the Hollywood Stars meet for a doubleheader.

"Outcast of the Islands" is the title of the 3 p.m. movie starring Ralph Richardson and Trevor Howard, the story of a man's treachery, on channel 5.

Channel 11 also has a movie at 3. It is a musical "Lady, Let's Dance," with James Ellison and Belita.

A doctor tries to treat mental patients during the days of the French Revolution in "Again the Stars," seen on channel 11 at 5.30 and on channel 12 an hour later.

A motor accident saves a marriage in "The Crime of Daphne Rutledge," Premiere Theatre offering at 6.30 p.m. on channel 5.

The authentic story of the struggle for salt in New Mexico territory in 1849 is told on channel 4 at 7.30.

A stern widower learns that life can mean warmth, love and pleasure as well as rigid duty in "Pencil Sketch," a channel 4 play at 9.

New variety show on channel 12 is headed by Vic Damone and features a host of guest stars at 9.30.

Tense drama is presented on channel 11 at 9.30 by Alfred Hitchcock in "The Baby Sitter."

A story about British Columbia's three famous monsters, Caddy, Ogopogo and the Sasquatch, is on channel 2 at 10.30.

A tragic and moving story is "Garden of Allah," channel 12 movie featuring Marlene Dietrich and Charles Boyer at 10.30.

"Two Sinners" is the channel 4 movie starring Otto Kruger at 11.05.

Orson Welles and Rita Hayworth are in the channel 2 movie, "Lady from Shanghai," at 11.15.

"Appointment in Berlin" is the tense picture on channel 5, which features George Sanders and Marguerite Chapman, at 11.30.

"I'd like the steak well-stacked . . . I mean well-done."

SUNDAY, JULY 29

Today's quotation:

"God wove a web of loveliness of clouds and
stars and birds,
But made not any thing at all so beautiful as words."

—Anna H. Branch.

Sunday for everyone: Catch up on rest; attend to confidential and behind-the-scenes matters. Try to accomplish an objective in the way of pleasure and entertainment, but keep things on a practical basis.

Look for Your Birthdate and Birthsign Below

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—Fit in with adjustments in your locale; get a better perspective. Exert

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus)—Seek to effect contacts of a basic and gainful character. Uncover useful news.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—Make telling advances through the agency of pleasant and convivial contacts. Seek profit.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer)—Attain your full stature; fulfill the expectations of higher-ups and parents.

July 23 to Aug. 22 (Leo)—Gain advice concerning plans, trips, commercial doings. Watch incoming news for ideas.

Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 (Virgo)—Reach a fuller accord with the monetary goals of others; arrive at agreements.

Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 (Libra)—Sit back and let someone else start the ball rolling. Strengthen sympathy and accord.

Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio)—Bring about improvements in the health picture. Pay extra attention to wardrobe, necessities.

Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius)—Inform people of your sentiments concerning them. Let your talents win you greater preference.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 (Capricorn)—Be considerate with those in your home or base of operations. Resolve some issue by midevening.

Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 (Aquarius)—Make contact with those nearby. Dispatch any correspondence you've an urge to pen.

Feb. 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—Set the day aside for adjusting the budget and deals involving funds or possessions.

Planning ahead—Good for sociability, entertaining, etc.: July 31 (morning); August 4, 6 and 7.

MONDAY, JULY 30

Today's quotation: "God made the country and man the town."—Cowpepr.

Monday for everyone: Seek to correct upsets or inequalities by being just, tactful, remaining on centre. Steer clear of extravagance, opposition and changes. Recheck judgment.

Look for Your Birthdate and Birthsign Below

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—Keep your eye upon belongings and values. Developments may prove costly unless you circumvent them.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus)—You make the most headway by being self-sufficient and willing to put duty first.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—Background factors are important. Take these into account in all dealings with others.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer)—Some friend or associate may prove disturbing unless you sidetrack the situation. Be diplomatic.

July 23 to Aug. 22 (Leo)—Dealings with those at the top may require patience, tact. Scan all angles of moves before going ahead.

Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 (Virgo)—Contrast and compare, strive for an equal division of efforts now. Don't be too reticent or proud.

Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 (Libra)—Be prepared to make swift adjustments in line with circumstances and necessities; take no chances.

Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio)—See that your rights are not infringed but otherwise be your usual self. Expect little co-operation.

Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius)—Your work methods and environment may need some straightening out. Don't let things pile up.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 (Capricorn)—Let your pocket-book and resources determine your course now. Take no chances regarding loved ones, money matters, pleasures.

Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 (Aquarius)—Be the dependable one and keep things rolling. Square away home, family, basic matters.

Feb. 19 to March 20 (Aries)—Defer unnecessary trips and visits. Keep relationships on an impersonal basis.

Planning ahead—Good for sociability, entertaining, etc.: July 31 (morning); August 1, 4, 5 (late afternoon and evening), 7 and 9.

Big Brother to Rescue

Army rescue helicopter carries a disabled smaller helicopter over the Potomac river after it had to be abandoned. Chief Warrant Officer Modesta Ruiz was flying the smaller craft from New York to Fort Bragg, N.C., when he had to make a forced landing near Washington. Ruiz left his craft and walked to a nearby army airfield to report his mishap. Officials decided to turn the recovery into a training manoeuvre.—(CPC)

News of Nanaimo

Drink, Drugs Hit Again By Magistrate

NANAIMO—A Nanaimo motorist five days ago received his first licence endorsement from a police magistrate in 32 years of driving—plus a $12.50 fine.

Friday, he appeared before Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts again, this time on an impaired driving charge. He pleaded guilty, was fined $150 and had a second endorsement placed on his licence.

Esmond Arthur Taylor was said by police to have run into the back of a car driven by Mrs. Dorothy Alexander early Friday.

Both cars left the scene of the accident but Taylor was found during a search of the area.

He told the magistrate he had taken drugs to combat a pensionable illness from which he suffered after taking about six drinks at a meeting earlier.

For the second time in a week, Magistrate Beevor-Potts warned that "drink and drugs don't mix" and imposed the fine.

The newly-formed Nanaimo Youth Club decided at a meeting Thursday night that it would christen itself "Sreganeet" ("teenagers" spelled backwards). Nothing backward about this club, though, which organized games and dancing at Thursday night's session and soon will be organizing hikes and photographic parties.

Coming to Nanaimo to serve Haliburton Street United Church for two weeks on a exchange-scheme visit with the Nanaimo pastor, Rev. A. C. Crewe, is Rev. Miller C. Lovett, pastor-director of First Methodist Church in Ellenburg, Wash. The ministers and their families are exchanging both pulpit and manse.

Officers elected when the city's first Outboard Boating Club was formed here Thursday night were: Fred Reid, commodore; Bob Stacey, Jr., vice-commodore; Mrs. F. Reid, secretary; and Bob Nash, treasurer.

Canada's Rally from Slump Described in Stock Survey

The story of Canada's dramatic 1955 rally from the recession of 1954 is told in the foreword to The Financial Post 1956 Survey of Industrials ($3) just published.

The annual reports on 344 Canadian companies showed combined net profit increase of 26 per cent from 1954, and for the first time since 1950, earnings were up in relation to invested capital. The combined return on net worth rose to 11.1 per cent.

Shareholders directly profited too in an increase of dividends of 15.2 per cent, while the companies collectively paid out about 53 per cent of net profits in dividends.

Gains were made in all 15 major industrial groups while working capital was up 12.3 per cent.

All groups made a profit, including textiles, which as a group had lost in 1954. Only two of the groups showed lower profits. Milling and grain profits dipped 1.4 per cent, and beverage profits were off 4.1 per cent. Net profits of the lumber group made the sharpest increase — up 56.7 per cent. Transportation companies came next with an increase of 45.9 per cent.

Government Closes File In Missing Frogman Case

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The file has been closed in the case of the missing frogman, Lt. - Cmdr. Lionel Crabb.

Even those who revel in a story with such cloak-and-dagger trappings have given up hope of adding another sensational twist to an episode which aroused world interest, created scenes in Parliament and produced several conflicting versions of what actually happened.

Now, after nearly three months have passed since Crabb was reported missing, it is understood the facts are that the frogman died in an ordinary secret service operation, which the British government probably would not have authorized if it had been informed in advance.

Some secret service operations are reported to the government before they take place, but not all.

DIVING IN HARBOR

Crabb was reported missing early in May after a diving operation in Portsmouth harbor, near the Soviet cruiser which brought Russian leaders Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev to Britain last April 18.

The circumstances of his disappearance created a sensation. It became known that Crabb and a still unidentified "Mr. Smith" checked into the Sallyport Hotel in Portsmouth April 17. Four days later, the pages containing Crabb's name were removed from the hotel register.

Such fiction-like incidents, plus the international implications of what was construed as an unfriendly act toward Russia at a time when the cold war seemed to be thawing, resulted in strong criticism of the Conservative government. But though the government admitted Crabb had been diving near Russian vessels, and issued an official apology to Russia, Prime Minister Eden declined to give full details. He said they would not be in the "public interest."

Finally, the Speaker of the House of Commons refused to accept any further questions.

Search Continues

Even when things are comparatively quiet in Cyprus, the hunt goes on for terrorists and their arms caches. Turkish mobile reserve police are searching a construction site in Nicosia after a section of the city had been cordoned off.—(CPC.)

Colonist Swim Classes

Pants Over Sopping Suits Habit of Some Swimmers

By MRS. MARGIE NAYSMITH

Since many of the lads pull their pants on right over dripping wet and sandy [illegible] must have a major clean-up job afterwards.

The thought of sitting in a sloppy swim suit all the way home gives me the shudders. It is no wonder the bus drivers have trouble with children squirming uncomfortably about their vehicles.

The girls usually leave in a little better shape, since I can enter their dressing rooms.

I suggested to one little fellow he remove his wet swim suit before putting his pants on, and he replied, "Oh, that's all right. I am going to the beach this afternoon and will save me changing.

I noticed another youngster had trouble getting onto the bus at Elk lake this week, and it wasn't surprising.

The ornate cowboy belt which held up his jeans, also supported a soaking wet bathing suit, a pair of flippers, a face mask and a snorkel tube, leaving his hands free to handle a big box of popcorn.

They can even use the same buses the children do, if they want to run the risk of climbing in with all those happy and cute, but sometimes messy, little people.

The children will be learning to co-ordinate their flutter kick with their arm stroking—or as they insist I say, "get their motor and arm stroking together."

"I told you so," said a little boy.

However, the water was just a little too high and choppy. Next week the boy promises me the sea will be about half-way out the beach and just right. We shall see.
